Blazing Vessel Makes Thrilling Spectacle On Victoria's Waterfront

Thousands Witness Fire Which Dooms Tacoma Motorship Boobyalla; Towed Into Straits After Blaze Threatens Mill and Powder Magazine in Esquimalt; Fiery Hull Provides Unusual Display; Fuel Oil Tanks Ignite and Spell End; Fire Burning Itself Out To-day.

Abaze from stem to stern, the American motorship Boobyalla, beached near Albert Head, to-day issued a huge column of smoke and fumes, after providing one of the most spectacular sights ever seen at sea off Victoria.

While the steamer Salvage King still stood by, there was little hope of saving anything from the doomed vessel. The fire, which started in the Boobyalla's engine room early Saturday morning, is now burning itself out while the vessel is beached in a safe place away from navigation.

Ignition of the oil tanks early last night sounded the death knell of the ill-fated motorship. She instantly became a raging furnace and a menace to the vessels standing by her and to the powder magazine and saw-mill in Esquimalt Harbor.

THOUSANDS SEE FIRE

Thousands of Victorians lined the waterfront last night to witness the spectacle of the blazing ship being towed out into the straits. Pillars of fire shot up from her mainmast to her stern and columns of smoke belched skyward, producing a vivid display.

Later, when the craft was towed near the gravel pits north of Albert Head by the Salvage King, motorists followed her by road, seeking vantage points on the beach near Metchoon to view the blazing mass.

BEGINNING OF END

When the Boobyalla burst into flame in Esquimalt Harbor last night, it was the beginning of the end of a thirty-six-hour fight, which the crew of the Salvage King had undertaken to quell the fire.

So sudden was the onslaught of the roaring flames that all the ventilator shafts became fiery chimneys for the blaze. The crew of the Salvage King, weary with the long battle against the red demon, were scorched and singed by the heat.

CUT ADRIFT

No time was lost in cutting adrift from the blazing vessel. Acetylene torches were used on the anchor chains and tie-up chains and a towline was slung aboard. In her flaming condition (Continued on page 12)

SHINGLE DUTY RAISES DOUBTS AT WASHINGTON

Republican House Committee's Proposal Causes Heads to Voice Apprehension

Washington, May 13.—Tariff schedules proposed by the House ways and means committee on building materials and sugar are receiving close scrutiny at the White House, with clear indications they fail to meet with the entire approval of President Hoover.

Objection has been raised in administration quarters particularly to the proposed duties on cement and brick, which would be taken from the free list to protect Eastern seaboard and Gulf of Mexico coast manufacturers from Belgian competition.

The proposed duty on shingles also is being closely studied, with some administration officials expressing apprehension to-day that the effect might be to turn over the whole roofing industry in this country to the patent shingle manufacturers and thus destroy the wooden shingle industry.

Advisors of the President are undertaking to work out a substitute for the sugar schedule on the basis of a sliding scale of duties, with the highest rates operative only under conditions of the keenest sort of competition with the United States cane and beet industries during years of excessive production in foreign countries.

TEN NEW PLANES FOR FLYING CLUBS

Ottawa, May 13.—Ten aeroplanes are to be given by the Government to flying clubs already in operation. These are to duplicate purchases made in 1928 by the clubs in Montreal, Ottawa, Hamilton, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Moose Jaw, Grimsby, Que., Saskatoon and Calgary.

The grants are made in furtherance of a policy formulated in 1927 to encourage flying in Canada. There are at present attached to the clubs 142 holders of private licenses and 45 commercial. The total membership is 5,400, with 260 members flying solo.

Tolmie Back Fears Effect Of U.S. Tariff

Aimed Directly at British Columbia Shingle and Cedar Produce, He Says

Appreciates Assistance of Dominion Government in P.G.E. Survey

Emphasizing that the main object of his trip to Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto was to enjoy a holiday, Premier Tolmie returned to Victoria yesterday with the information that he had a number of conferences with Federal Ministers, members of the Ontario Government and officials of the C.P.R. and C.N.R. regarding British Columbia affairs.

The Premier appeared considerably better in health for his vacation, and outside of reading a direct attack on British Columbia's cedar and shingle industry through United States tariff changes, which he said was the subject of discussion throughout the Dominion, spoke optimistically of his trip.

Church-Government Negotiations In Mexico

Mexico City, May 13.—Feeling is growing in Mexico that a healing of the estrangement between the Roman Catholic Church and the Mexican Government will develop from negotiations which the two seem on the verge of beginning.

There has been a noticeable reaction favorable to a rapprochement since the Archbishop of Mexico, Cardinal Michoacan at Washington recently and his answer from President Emilio Portes Gil that overtures for co-operation between the two governments would not be unwelcome.

Silver Coin Substituted For Lead Bullets in Southern Chinese Struggle

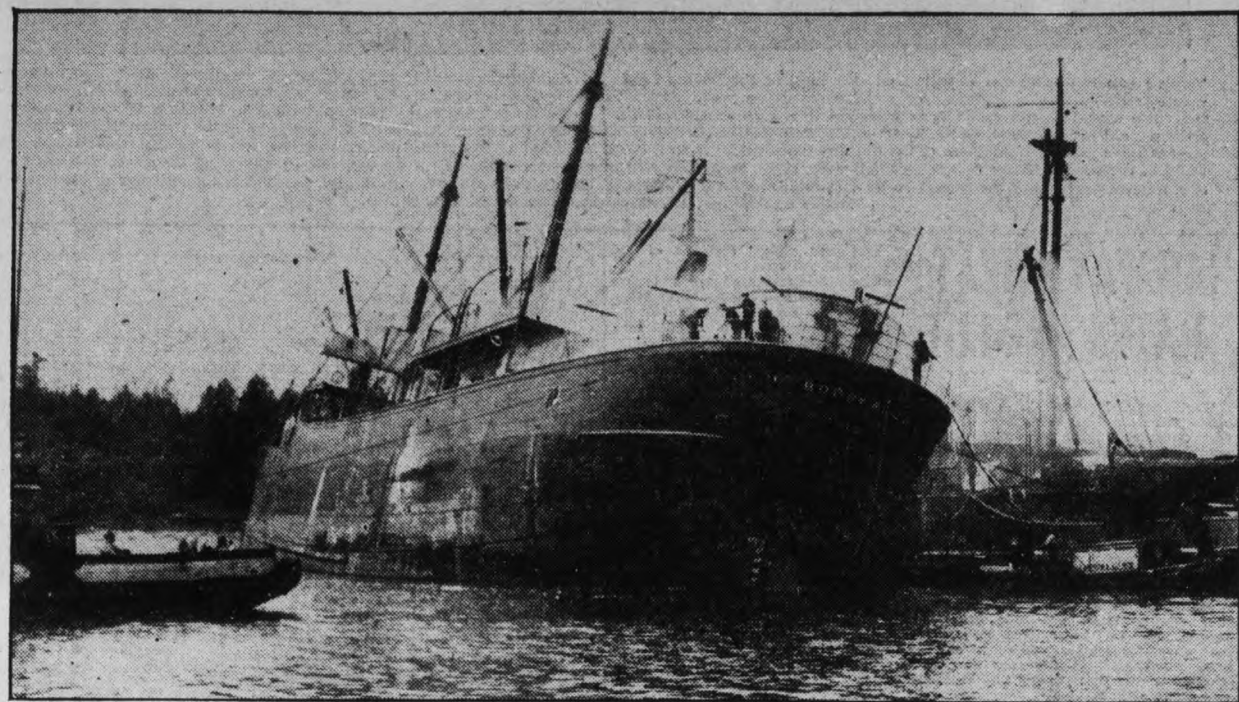

Canton, China, May 13.—The Kwangsi armies which advanced on this rich commercial city from three sides have been bought off. Following announcement of an armistice by the Cantonese military authorities, the general looting and confiscation which would have been a consequence of capture seems to have been averted.

The panic of the populace, who already had been under fire, was quickly lessened by the statement. Although details of the settlement have not been revealed, it appears to be another instance where silver coin was substituted for lead bullets in Chinese warfare. The Kwangsi leaders virtually dictated the terms, for the positions their armies occupied made capture of the city a foregone conclusion. (Continued on page 2)

COMMISSION INQUIRES INTO SHORTAGES IN GRAIN CARGOES

Vancouver, May 13.—Alleged shortages running from 0.62 per cent to 3.9 per cent in grain cargoes shipped in twenty-one ships from here to the Orient and six to the United Kingdom between August 1, 1928, and the present, were revealed this morning when S. M. Capon, Government weighmaster, submitted a tabulation to the Saskatchewan Grain Inquiry Commission here.

WITH DECKS HOT UNDER FOOT, SALVAGE MEN FIGHT BLAZE ON MOTORSHIP

Above is a picture of the burning Tacoma motorship Boobyalla as she appeared during one of the most critical moments in the battle against the flames when at anchor in Esquimalt Saturday. She carries a marked list to starboard caused by the condensation of steam which had been pumped into her from the steamer Salvage King throughout Saturday morning. At the right, on her starboard quarter can be seen the Salvage King, whose crew put up a valiant fight to save the doomed craft, while at the left is the tug Hopkins, with a line attached to the blazing vessel.

Crews Conquer Fires In Northern Plains Country

The Pas, Man., May 13.—After half a week of struggle against the fire scourge in northern regions Manitoba and Saskatchewan, 700 weary flame-fighters reached out to grasp victory to-day. Forest blazes in Manitoba were either extinguished or under control and fires in Saskatchewan were reported to have been balked in their progress through valuable stands of timber.

Thousands of acres of Manitoba forest land, which burned for three days, are now stretches of smoking territory, but the threat of spreading fires has been vanquished. Five hundred men, who fought the fires without rest for seventy-two hours, were able to isolate the outbreak by virtually cutting around them a safety path that halted the destruction.

AIDED BY PLANES

Three government planes aided the workers in the Cold Lake area, scene of the most dangerous Manitoba outbreak. When the flames halted, men were rushed to strategic points to prevent spreading along shores. The fires in the Pin Point area were extinguished and those at Cold Lake are stated to be under control.

PARK AREAS SAVED

Efforts to combat fires in the southern portion of the Prince Albert National Park were successful over the week-end, information indicated, and to-day the park's beauties are said to be protected against further destruction. A brush fire out of control in the Sturgeon River district was finally halted yesterday.

More reports from other scattered fires, thought to be of lesser size, indicated calm and cloudy weather, coupled with concerted efforts by parties of forestry department workers, and their aid were overcoming the danger of further destruction.

EARTH SHOCKS IN ITALY

Berlin, May 13.—The Hohenheim Seismological Institute yesterday recorded a strong earthquake, centring at a distance of 260 miles away, presumably in northern Italy.

PILOTS ARE GIVEN NEW CERTIFICATES

Vancouver, May 13.—Captain F. L. Saunders, Superintendent of Pilots for the British Columbia District, this morning stated all pilots, thirty-three in number, had passed the examination and provisional certificates were now ready. The honorary joint committee of pilots and shipping interests is now busily engaged discussing proposed by-laws for governing the pilotage district.

COMMISSION INQUIRES INTO SHORTAGES IN GRAIN CARGOES

The commission received the statement covering the individual cargoes on which shortages have been claimed and also copies of correspondence on this subject. No explanation is forthcoming, the weighmaster claiming the cargoes loaded here were full measure. Thus the commission is left with the unanswered question: "What happens between the time a full cargo is loaded in Vancouver and its arrival at its destination allegedly short?"

George T. Stallings, "Miracle Man," Succumbs in Georgia After Long Illness

Haddock, Ga., May 13.—George T. Stallings, who won fame in 1914 by capturing the world's baseball championship for the Boston Braves, died to-day at his home near here. He was sixty-three years old.

Death came at 5 o'clock this morning after an illness of several months, which had forced his retirement from the management of the Montreal club of the International League.

George T. Stallings was called the "Miracle Man" because of his leadership of one of the most remarkable championship clubs of major league history, the Boston Braves of 1914.

The team was remarkable because of Stallings and was made so by the unique system he employed in directing its play during the last half of that season—a system that carried the Braves from the cellar up through the National League to win its pennant, and then on to a four-straight victory (Continued on page 2)

NEW EXPLOSIVE KEPT SECRET

Canadian Discovery Tried By Artillery Said to Surprise All Existing Formulas

Toronto, May 13.—"The secret of a new explosive said to be more effective than any previously known to science, is being zealously guarded by the Department of National Defence," said a dispatch from Kingston, Ont., published in The Toronto Mainland Empire this morning.

"After extensive trials at Petawawa Camp, artillery officials here refused absolutely to disclose details of the discovery."

The trials at the artillery camp were witnessed by experts from the Department of National Defence and experts in the manufacture of explosives. "The officials absolutely declined to give the name of the new substance. Nor would they say to what particular use it might be put. They refused to give the name of the discoverer. It was indicated it was the work of a Canadian."

Veteran Miner Says Fortune Attended Him

Discovered "a Mile of Mineral" in Portland Canal Area

Original Partner Turned Back on Wealth and Went to Death in Alaska Stream

Claiming to have discovered the Big Missouri mine, which he said he recorded in a group of claims in the Salmon River area of the Portland Canal in 1903-4 as the Jumbo claims, William F. Harris, seventy-seven years old, prospector of Fort Angeles, opened suit for $100,000 from the estates of the three men with whom he had once chummed before Chief Justice Morrison in Supreme Court to-day.

Hale and hearty, despite his years, the Missourian in simple unaffected terms told a dramatic story of the finding of the rich mineral claims, and the vicissitudes of the long struggle in nearly thirty years of prospecting, from 1898 to but a few years ago, when he retired.

The court heard how Harris, accompanied by a younger man, David Reack, worked up the Salmon River from its mouth, and came on a "mile of mineralized ground."

Reack, after a year and a half of hard work at the scene, grew discouraged, told his partner they would "spend a life time there," and sold out his interest for $200 and had wanted to give it to Harris for nothing. Then turning his back on what developed later into a fortune, Reack went to Alaska, where a little while afterwards (Continued on page 2)

Mr. Dudley came north with Mr. Leach early last month and has spent the time since investigating the situation in Victoria. MONTHLY PAYMENTS

It is understood the Kwangtung Government agreed to pay $750,000 Mexican monthly for an indefinite period, to supply additional military supplies and a large body of troops for patrol duties, subject to the command of the Kwangtung clique.

It also is reported the Cantonese agreed to allow the Kwangtung leaders to resume their alleged opium trade down the West River, which the Cantonese recently interrupted by confiscating opium shipments passing through the city.

Another reported demand which is understood to have been granted is the removal of the civil governor of Kwangtung and the chiefs of the Cantonese army and navy.

The advance of the Kwangtung soldiers had halted yesterday and political differences between the two provinces appeared to be at an end, although for how long was another question. The Central Bank of Canton reopened and its notes rose in value to within seventy-five per cent of par.

You're probably driving one of their cars. For most of the leading automobile manufacturers of the United States and many, many millions of dollars were represented in this gathering upon the White House lawn. Left to right are: Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Co.; F. A. Seiberling, president of the Seiberling Rubber Co.; Alfred H. Swayne, vice-president of the General Motors Corporation; Walter P. Chrysler, president of the Chrysler Corporation; A. R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker Corporation; Roy D. Chapin, chairman of the board of the Hudson Motor Co.; President Hoover; C. W. IOWA COLLEGE IS REOPENED AFTER RIOTS

Des Moines, Ia., May 13.—Nearly a hundred students of the Des Moines University early to-day stormed the residence of Rev. Carl Ganschow, Morris Rose, John P. Dempster and Frank Rose, all of Toronto, Canada, had been sheltered in the parsonage since the recent outbreak of feeling on the campus of the Baptist University.

Members of the student body, intent on wreaking vengeance for what they termed "the Canadian espionage system," supposed to have been instituted by Miss Edith M. Rebanan, secretary of the board of trustees, surprise Rose and Dempster in front of the Ganschow home.

The Canadians fled, the police were called and John Lund and James Dunbar, students, were arrested. Rose and Dempster identified themselves as members of the group that had threatened them.

CLASH EXPECTED

Kansas City, Mo., May 13.—The closing of Des Moines University was the logical result of the fundamentalist-modernist controversy that has been raging in American theological colleges in recent years, Dr. J. W. Millon, former president of the university, said here.

The trouble at the Des Moines Baptist institution, Dr. Millon said, appeared to be a controversy between the ultra-fundamentalists, represented by Dr. T. F. Shields, president of the board of trustees, and the fundamentalists, represented by the faculty.

DECORATED FLOATS

Official entries in the parade line-up to date include twelve teams of decorated bicycles from Victoria and Saanich schools, through the co-operation of school principals and George H. Deane, under the auspices of the school trustees of both municipalities. A cup is to be presented for the best decorated team, with individual prizes for its members.

Every effort is also being bent on having as large a turnout of decorated private cars as possible. The popular costumed riders' sections of the past will be revived.

Floats already entered are from the following firms and organizations: B.C. E.R. Company Limited, B.C. Telephone Company, Victoria Fire Department, B.C. Forest Branch, Canadian Forestry Association, Happy Valley district, David Spencer Limited, Hudson's Bay Company, Jones Brothers, Pimley and Ritchie, Hiker Manufacturing Company, Bant Oith Company Limited, Powell Trucking Company, New Method Laundry, Kinmen Club, Native Sons of B.C., Native Sons of Canada and others for whom tentative arrangements have been made.

U.S. REPRESENTED

The United States will be represented in the international section of the parade, either by a landing party from the U.S.S. Snobolish, or else by an individual entry by U.S. citizens here, under the auspices of the consulate. Seattle, Vancouver, Bellingham and other cities have promised to have parties in the parade. The majors in each case being personally invited.

Chinese residents of the city are endeavoring to complete arrangements for a lion dance, which would be a fairly new here if it is carried out. The dance requires forty prancing youth for the mimic lions, and is spectacular and most colorful.

The May Queen, to be chosen in the schools, will ride in state in the parade, attended by representatives of her 6,000 subjects.

COLORFUL FIGURE

Always a colorful figure of baseball, Stallings never had been given the credit due him until his supreme achievement, the Boston Braves, was won. He was a smart baseball man, both as a player and manager, but in the opportunities that came to him he encountered obstacles that required even more extraordinary ability to surmount.

His first managerial job in the major leagues was with the Philadelphia Nationals. A perennial second division club, the Braves did not possess the wealth to enable Stallings to build up the team as he wished and he went the way of several other managers who tried to produce a winner out of nothing.

In 1909 Stallings became manager of the New York Yankees after a season in which the club, under Clark Griffith and Norbert (Kid) Pfeffer, finished last. That year the Yankees finished at the head of the second division. By 1910 he had so rehabilitated the former broken down baseball machine that he had become manager of the club. That year the Yankees finished at the head of the second division.

Baseball experts agreed that the Athletics were the best Boston major league, but again Stallings was handicapped by an obstacle that ability and leadership could not overcome—internal dissension. It was said that Hal Chase, who later was copped from organized baseball as an ineligible, instigated the movement against Stallings in an attempt to satisfy his own ambition to become manager.

The situation became unbearable to the Georgian who tossed over the managerial reins in disgust as mid-season approached.

An opportunity with real backing came to Stallings when he assumed the management of the Boston Braves in 1913. During the Winter preceding that season the club had been purchased by James E. Gaffney, a wealthy New York contractor. He gave Stallings full swing in running the club with the result that he duplicated his feat with the Yankees.

That season Johnny Evers managed the Chicago Cubs and when he and other "Curries" of Murphy severed diplomatic relations at the close of the campaign, Stallings induced Gaffney to take over the Tropen's contract.

Stallings was back at their old station, last place.

START A SPURT

Then they started a spurt. It continued into a ten weeks' baseball season, the Braves won four straight pennants and closed the season in front with a margin of ten games. The Braves' four straight victories over the Athletics in the world's series marked the first time the series had been confined to that number of games.

Manager Stallings was a product of a Georgia farm, where he was born in 1868. It was there he unconsciously developed his throwing arm and gained control by hurling stones at the stumps of trees. He learned the rudiments of the game as a Richmond Academy, Augusta, Ga., and from the academy team went to his first professional baseball job with the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League as catcher. Later he became a player and manager in the old Eastern League, predecessor of the International League. In the latter he had been owner-manager of two clubs, Rochester and Montreal.

When a young man Stallings married Miss Belle White of Haddock, Ga., who later obtained a divorce. They had two sons. His wife of a second marriage died and some years later he married the widow of Bud Sharp, a former league first baseman and close friend, who had been a scout for Stallings' ball clubs many years. One son was born of the third union.

Here are the two juvenile murderers whose crime has stirred Paris to its foundations. The younger of the two is Emile le Guen, thirteen (left), and Louis Helle, fifteen.

BOY MURDERERS SHOCK PARIS WITH BRUTALITY; PSYCHOLOGISTS BAFFLED

PARIS, May 12.—Insidious influences of the war and the breaking down of family traditions since the war are blamed by psychologists and sociologists here for a wave of crimes by children that have puzzled the police and shocked the public. Whereas in other countries prohibition is often blamed for youthful crimes, no such element enters into the life of French children and youth.

The latest crime to stir public indignation was the murder of an octogenarian, Madame Barry, by two boys, Louis Helle, aged fifteen, and Emile le Guen, aged thirteen. The latter had been living quietly with his family and working as an errand boy at the corner grocer's. He seemed a very normal child, played innocent pranks on the neighbors and liked the movies. He had a little difficulty with his employer and left home with his month's pay.

"LEARNED LIFE" AT MOVIES

In the market district Emile met Louis who, during a few weeks of freedom from home life, had picked up some bad habits and was living by his wits. They went to the movies together and on one occasion, while watching a crime picture, Emile noticed Louis sitting with his chin on his hand and following the picture with unusual attention. He asked Louis if he wasn't enjoying the film, and the lad replied:

"I don't come here to enjoy myself. I come to learn about life."

After a few days of swapping opinions about the life the boys went broke. The children, but society itself is largely to blame. Society now gives young boys and girls every opportunity to learn life before they have reached the age to comprehend it and are able to accept it with sanity.

"Another reason for these perverted young minds can be traced to the war itself. They were conceived in the days of the war when the minds of men and women were not normal. Everybody was restless, fearful, and many were reckless. Something of that has been transmitted to many children and their abnormality breaks out in crime."

Department also proved unavailing. In masks and full fire-fighting equipment the men strove to check the flames but the small volume of foamite had practically no effect.

All day yesterday the fire was steadily creeping forward beneath the blistering decks and in an effort to check this a large section of decking was cut away forward of the engine room to allow Diver Collins to descend into the smoldering inferno with a hose to spray the underneath deck cross section.

Collins, in his diving suit, stood by his courageous attempt but the rapid spread of the fire defeated his efforts.

W. Reay, second engineer of the Salvage King, won the admiration of his fellow officers and the crew of both ships when he rushed down into the smoke to the paint locker to secure a tank of ether which, it was feared, might blow it up.

When it became apparent that the Boobyalla was doomed, her crew, in charge of the purser left Victoria for Seattle yesterday while the captain, chief engineer and first mate remained.

The Boobyalla was first towed across the waterfront of the city. When the fire reached the main fuel oil tanks there was a dull explosion. A gigantic sheet of flame and great clouds of smoke enveloped the whole craft.

FIRE EATS DECK

The decks of the ship were all ablaze by this time and the fire had eaten deep into the hull and the cargo of paper and shingles. The burning craft was towed to a safe place and beached, and there she continued to blaze throughout the night. Until well after midnight, thousands of Victorians watched the doomed vessel.

GIRL IS HEROINE OF FIRE IN TOWN

Miss Margaret Chapman, Telephone Operator, Saves Lives at Pugwash, N.S.

Pugwash, N.S., May 13.—The third disastrous fire to visit this small town within two years laid waste the best residential section early yesterday morning, destroying thirty-five structures, including fifteen residences, two churches, one small hotel, a factory, barns and small buildings. The losses are estimated at $125,000.

No lives were lost, but several persons sustained minor injuries.

CHURCHES DESTROYED

The Anglican church and the Roman Catholic Church and the Minto Hotel were the largest buildings destroyed.

The heroism of Miss Margaret Chapman, telephone operator, who remained at her switchboard until the last moment, plugging in all the numbers on the board and giving warnings, is believed to have averted a greater disaster. Many persons barely escaped, some jumping to the ground from upper windows.

JOHN B. ABBOTT DIES IN MONTREAL

Montreal, May 13.—John Betham Abbott, eldest son of Sir John J. Abbott, K.C., who was Prime Minister of Canada in 1891 and 1892, died here Saturday at the age of seventy-eight years. Mr. Abbott, from 1901 till 1924, was secretary and curator of the Art Association of Montreal, but was forced to retire on account of ill-health. He was born in Montreal and in 1914 graduated in law. Later he entered the law office of his father.

There are about 1,000,000 square miles of lake and river surface on the entire globe.

HENDERSON SEEKS RE-ELECTION TO BRITISH COMMONS

With Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Labor, a candidate for the British House of Commons in Burnley in the general election to be decided May 30, the following sketch, written by Thomas T. Chapman, Canadian Press staff correspondent in London, is of interest:

"Uncle Arthur" he is known in the Commons. Happy the parliamentarian who earns so amiable a nickname. For fifteen years Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson represented Burnley, Lancashire, as a Liberal-Labor member. Then he acquired a taste for wooling uncompromising constituencies and endured a good deal of rough and tumble.

Born in Glasgow, he went in his early years to Tyneside, where he served his apprenticeship both in the trade of an iron founder and in public life. Much of the tradition of the early school of Labor leadership sits upon him. He is a lifelong abstainer, was for a long time a big man—local preacher and so forth—in the smaller Wesleyan chapels, and for many years was a leading trades unionist of the steady-going sort. He eventually became converted to the doctrine that Labor, to fulfill its mission, must stand alone.

On the outbreak of the World War he was elected a chairman of the Labor Party. In May, 1915, he joined the Coalition Government as Minister of Education. Later he was paymaster-general, Labor adviser and Minister of Pensions. One of his sons fell in the war.

Two other sons entered Parliament and had the distinction of introducing their father following his victory in a by-election.

Both sons, though, were defeated not long afterwards. In the MacDonald Ministry he was Home Secretary. One thing about him in that office was that he did not always commute death sentences.

NOMINATIONS MADE IN ULSTER

Belfast, Northern Ireland, May 13 (Canadian Press Cable).—Nominations in the Ulster general election, held Saturday, indicate the official Unionists under Premier Viscount Craigavon will be returned to power. There are eighty-one candidates for fifty-eight seats. Sixteen Unionists and six Nationalists are unopposed, the return of the former including the Prime Minister and three of his five Cabinet colleagues. The outlook now is that Viscount Craigavon may have a bigger following than before, even excluding the Independent Unionists, of whom there are twelve and who will support him on his general policy.

The first part in the Government's programme is the maintenance of the closest imperial ties and the province is again rallying to this appeal.

Kovno Student Hurt By Explosion Is Under Arrest

Kovno, Lithuania, May 13.—A student named Versitius was identified as one of the authors of the recent attack on Premier Waldemar after he had been seriously injured by the explosion of one of his own bombs. The premature explosion occurred two days after the Premier had escaped the fusillade of shots which killed one of his aides and wounded several other persons.

WORK TO REDUCE PLANE ACCIDENTS

Washington, May 13.—A report sent to the United States Senate by Secretary Adams shows that fatalities in the aviation service of the navy and marine corps in the last five years totaled 150, and that their outstanding cause was the tail spin, which accounted for more than thirty-five per cent of the accidents.

"While progress has been made," the report says, "the problem has not been solved. The most promising development is the Handley-Page slotted wing, which has undergone modification and development by the navy."

Other measures taken to reduce the hazards include adoption of the parachute, development of the navy's aerologic service, supplying of rescue boats adapted to the work, giving of regular training to reserve aviators and steady increase in pilot flying time. "Any legislation which results in an increase in the efficiency of aviation," the report adds, "may be expected eventually to offset a corresponding reduction in the number of accidents. However, aside from these general effects, it is not believed safety of flying is a matter for specific legislation."

Vancouver Bridge Plans Are Discussed

Vancouver, May 13.—Working in the interests of motorists for a new bridge over False Creek, the Vancouver branch of the Auto Club of British Columbia finds propaganda has been circulated to the effect that the engineering in connection with the proposed Burrard Street structure would be done by United States engineers.

The highways and bridges committee of the Auto Club, after making a thorough investigation of the matter, has submitted a report to the effect that Canadian engineers, and that no United States consultant is being employed in connection with the plans. The only design to which an engineer from across the line is being referred to is to secure an expression of opinion on part of the bridge already designed by a Canadian consultant.

COLLEGE IS TO BE REOPENED

But Students at Des Moines University Must Obey Instructions

Des Moines, Iowa, May 13.—Max Schimpf of New York, who presided at a twenty-two-hour session of the trustees of Des Moines University Friday and Saturday, revealed last night that the board had investigated charges of alleged moral turpitude against Rev. Dr. T. T. Shields, board president, and Miss Edith M. Rehnman.

Schimpf issued the following statement: "A special meeting of the board of trustees of Des Moines University was called for the purpose of investigating all rumors regarding these individuals and many other questions of administrative friction. They also examined carefully the evidence that came before them of apparent malicious propaganda by enemies of the group of Baptists who are in control of the university, and who are endeavoring to operate it on the principles announced in its published literature."

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED
"The fullest opportunity was given for presentation of all evidence on these subjects. Repeated appeals and requests were made that every known fact or rumor be presented in full. All those making statements before the board were examined and cross-examined in the minutest detail. The result of twenty-two hours of session by the board is most clearly and concisely expressed in a set of resolutions adopted and published by the board."

Schimpf explained that he referred to a resolution which stated the board "repudiated with the profoundest indignation the very suggestion that either of the said officers of the board could, in either word or deed, condescend to any course incompatible with the highest standards of Christian integrity and honor."

Two students from whom Schimpf said the rumors probably had originated were heard by the board, but he declared their evidence was found to be uncorroborated and without basis by the trustees.

The acting chairman asserted friction in the school over its avowed fundamentalist character and between United States and Canadian students had contributed to the board's investigation.

Schimpf said a definite date for reopening the school had not been set, and indicated it depended on the willingness of the student body to resume its normal status.

On Saturday the entire faculty of the university, including Dr. Harry Wayman, president, was dismissed by the board of trustees.

It was charged that Miss Rehnman had been sending Canadian students who had followed Dr. Shields from Toronto to Des Moines, into his class to spy on him.

The announcement of the board's action brought forth a student demonstration for President Wayman that was quelled only after police were summoned.

Caulder Quits Saskatchewan

Regina, May 13.—Announcement is made by J. A. Caulder, well-known in Regina and throughout the province, that he is resigning as former President and managing director of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries Limited, and is leaving the premises to associate himself with a well-known financial house having its headquarters in Toronto.

An official statement will be made shortly by the officers of the organization which he is joining. It is understood Mr. Caulder will continue to use his long experience of dairy and creamery matters in his new position.

Mr. Caulder has been a resident of Saskatchewan for close on twenty-three years. For more than twenty years he lived in Moose Jaw.

In Regina he created the organization now known as the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries Limited, in which the creameries owned by himself were merged.

Mr. Caulder said the line is being referred to in January last retired from his executive position.

Death and Attacks
Are Investigated

Montreal, May 13.—Six-months-old Lauris Roy died of a fracture of the skull and her mother and four other children are suffering from injuries.

Police found the mother and five children had been struck with a hammer. Those members of the family were able to give the officers only a vague version of what had happened.

They stated the father was responsible for their injuries. The police held him on an open charge, which was investigated.

Three of the children, Lauris, Ferdinand and Roland, were found to be in serious condition and were removed to the St. Justine Hospital, where Lauris died last night. Physicians hold out little hope for the recovery of the other two.

The mother and the other two children, Roger, four, and Jennette, were also removed to a hospital, but were allowed to go to the home of a relative after medical treatment.

Education Leaders
To Discuss Peace

Columbia, Mo., May 13.—A thousand teachers of the United States will join 4,000 other educators at the third annual conference of the World Federation of Education Associations in Geneva, Switzerland, July 25 to August 3, for discussion of the modern trends of education.

Charles H. Williams, extension director of the University of Missouri here, is secretary of the federation. The delegates will discuss the central theme, "International Understanding and Goodwill Through Education," and will have a part in the Herman-Jordan plan, which five committees are concerned with world peace through education.

Discussion sections will consider kindergarten and pre-school education; rural life and rural education; the international aspect in library service and publicity.

New Device Adds
To Safety of Motors

San Diego, Cal., May 12.—In an experiment here a stream of water from a garden hose was directed for half an hour at the carburetors of a running automobile engine without causing any of the cylinders to miss fire once.

Between the nozzle of the hose and the carburetors there was a small device called a cleaner-blower, invented by Commander Karl Smith.

It is designed to protect internal combustion engines from heating or going dead from dust or water drifting into their carburetors. It is intended primarily for aeroplanes.

The device is installed beneath the motor on the plane and in the blast of air from the propeller. Its mouth is covered with a coarse screen to stop stones or to break up waves that may be thrown up by pontoons.

Inside the blower are vanes that act as a blast to whirling. The water, caught in this powerful whirlwind, flattens against the sides of the blower and runs out of an opening that passes it out into the air. There are no moving parts.

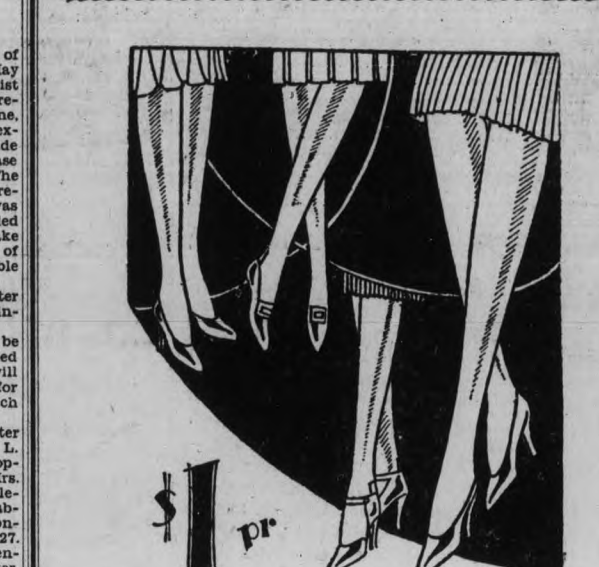

The inventor claims the blower does not lessen horse power, and that experiments indicate it increases motor efficiency. It can be installed on autos and Diesel engines.

New Device Adds
To Safety of Motors

San Diego, Cal., May 12.—In an experiment here a stream of water from a garden hose was directed for half an hour at the carburetors of a running automobile engine without causing any of the cylinders to miss fire once.

Between the nozzle of the hose and the carburetors there was a small device called a cleaner-blower, invented by Commander Karl Smith.

It is designed to protect internal combustion engines from heating or going dead from dust or water drifting into their carburetors. It is intended primarily for aeroplanes.

The device is installed beneath the motor on the plane and in the blast of air from the propeller. Its mouth is covered with a coarse screen to stop stones or to break up waves that may be thrown up by pontoons.

Inside the blower are vanes that act as a blast to whirling. The water, caught in this powerful whirlwind, flattens against the sides of the blower and runs out of an opening that passes it out into the air. There are no moving parts.

The inventor claims the blower does not lessen horse power, and that experiments indicate it increases motor efficiency. It can be installed on autos and Diesel engines.

BODY IS RECOVERED

Barnia, Ont., May 13.—The body of Sidney Chappelle, nineteen, of Vancouver, a sailor of the steamship Huronic, who lost his life by drowning Saturday morning, was recovered from the St. Clair River Saturday night. The throw line which had dragged Chappelle into the river when it became entangled about a less while the Huronic was being moored to a dock was tangled about the body.

For Creaky Joints
Just rub on the new application called Joint-Ease if you want to know what real joint comfort is. It's for stiff, swollen, or pain-tortured joints whether caused by rheumatism or not. A few seconds' rubbing and it soaks right in through skin and flesh right down to ligament and bone. It oils up and limbers up the joints, subdues the inflammation and reduces the swelling. Joint-Ease is the one great remedy for all joint troubles. It is made in Canada and live drug-joints are dispensing it daily—a tube for 60 cents.

—guard its fine motor
carbon-forming oils!

TODAY, car makers give us wonderful motors with enormous capacity for endurance, for speed. Not mere size; many of the "biggest" motors have disappeared. Rather it is the strength, the efficiency built into them. A change in design which enabled Studebakers, for example, to shatter existing records for time and distance.

This change in motor design, almost universal now, calls for a new motor oil standard—an oil that forms no hard carbon. Such oils are scarce; many otherwise good lubricants are notorious carbon-formers. They could be used perhaps in the big, roomy motors of a few years ago, but today, with pistons that come almost to the cylinder head, there's simply no room for carbon.

There is an oil, however, that forms 2/3 to 4/5 less carbon than even the costliest oils! The little it does form is only soft soot that blows easily away. It both lubricates and protects fine motors. It eliminates the gritty carbon chips that would grind endlessly through tight pistons and bearings; prevents carbon knocks, valve fouling and burning.

It is Shell Motor Oil. Refined by a new high-vacuum process, this remarkable low-carbon oil is hailed by lubrication experts as a great advance. Full bodied, resistant to heat—Shell Motor Oil is a great new lubricant with the added advantage of less carbon.

This particular body style, the Commander eight brougham, caught the artist's eye as he sketched a display of the new Studebaker models

Even the costliest oils form more carbon. A sample of this oil, when burned, left more than three times as much as Shell Motor Oil

An equal sample of Shell Motor Oil left only this small fraction of carbon—and it is soft carbon, not the hard, gritty, damaging kind

Here is a section of the efficient 80 h.p. eight cylinder Studebaker Commander motor. No room in it for the handful of coke-carbon which old-style oils would soon leave. To get the most out of any modern motor you need an oil that forms no hard carbon

SHELL MOTOR OIL

Shell 400, the new "dry" gas that burns cleanly and keeps out of the crankcase, is the ideal running mate for Shell Motor Oil. Even Shell Motor Oil can be ruined by thinning with "wet" gasoline

SASKATCHEWAN TO VOTE IN JUNE

WHEN THE LEGISLATURE OF Saskatchewan dissolved on Saturday, Premier Gardiner disposed of all doubts as to when the general election in that province would be held. June 6 will be polling day and the Government anticipates no difficulty in obtaining the endorsement of the electorate. To date there are something like 133 candidates in the field. Of these the Liberal Party—the party represented by the Government—has forty-seven, the Conservatives forty, the Progressives sixteen, while five Independents, one Laborite, two of the Farmers' Party and two Provincial Co-operatives make up the remainder of the early entrants. The Legislature consists of sixty-three members, and in the last election of 1925, fifty-one Liberals were returned, the Conservatives electing three, with Progressives and other parties accounting for the remainder.

Since Saskatchewan was established as a province in 1905 the Liberal Party has held the reins of office continuously with a very large majority. And one of the interesting features of political developments in the province has been the youth of the men who have held the position of Prime Minister. When Hon. Walter Scott undertook to form the first Provincial Government he was only thirty-eight years of age, and he held that office until he resigned from public life in 1916. He was succeeded by Hon. William Martin—now a Justice of the Court of Appeal of Saskatchewan—at the age of forty-one. He held the office until 1922. Next to be called to the Premiership was Hon. Charles A. Dunning—now Minister of Railways in the Government of Mr. Mackenzie King—at the age of thirty-seven. Until he was called to the wider political field in 1926 he directed the Government's activities. The present Premier was older than any of his predecessors when he took the reins after Mr. Dunning's retirement; yet he was only forty-three.

We may assume, therefore, that Saskatchewan has set something of a record in the selection of youthful Prime Ministers. It also has been fortunate in having among its citizens such men as these—men of ability and vision. It is not for us to suggest that this fact has had any very material influence upon the progress of the Province since its establishment nearly a quarter of a century ago. It will have to be acknowledged, however, that Saskatchewan has made tremendous strides in the agricultural and industrial sense since Hon. Walter Scott formed its first Government, while the overwhelming volume of support which each succeeding Government has obtained at general elections would appear to indicate general public satisfaction with the manner in which the business of the people has been conducted.

WOMEN SPEAK THEIR MIND

IS IT POSSIBLE TO MAKE THE subject of international peace a practical issue in an election campaign? An answer to this comes from Britain and the honor of the first real attempt goes to the gentler sex. No less than five million enfranchised women in the Old Country have taken as their election slogan: "Make the Peace Pact a Reality"—and, irrespective of party, they will impress on their elected representatives that they must be practical protagonists of peace.

Here is the great opportunity for women in public life. Mothers, wives and sweethearts felt the suffering and horror of the Great War even more than their men-folk. Excitement and action was man's portion, but thousands of women had nothing but those dreary hours of waiting, longing and anxiety, while thousands, when the battle-worn heroes returned, were left forever bereft of those dear ones who meant more to them than life itself.

The women of Britain can rightly grasp this opportunity with deeper realization of the miseries of war than those of any other nation. It is true that the women of France saw their beloved homeland ravaged and partly ruined; but since the Armistice they have enjoyed comparative prosperity and a great revival of trade, whereas not only did Britain suffer the loss of the flower of its manhood, but the years since the war have been years of struggle, unemployment, poverty and depressed trade.

Five million women of Britain have made a solemn covenant that man must put his house in order and that they will not bear sons to be the victims of senseless hate, industrial greed, or the poor pawns of senile diplomacy. They will insist that through the agency of the League of Nations, and by every other agency that can be put in being, they will make peace on earth a practical reality. If the women of every other country follow the example of their British sisters, the world may soon be forever freed from the greatest enemy of contentment, progress and prosperity.

BIG TALK, BIG ACTIONS

WHEN UNITED STATES SENATOR James Couzens, sued by the Treasury Department a couple of years ago, announced that the money involved ($10,000,000), did not interest him at all, and that if he won his suit he would give it all to charity, most newspaper readers probably set the remark down as an empty gesture and forgot about it.

But Senator Couzens is a man of his word. He has just created a $10,000,000 trust fund for the promotion of child health, welfare and happiness, with the stipulation that all the money must be spent in twenty-five years.

We are used to large-scale charities. But Senator Couzens' way of establishing this one is unique. Here is a man who not only can talk in a big way, but can back up his words in a big way.

THE DREAMERS AND TRAGEDY

THERE WAS SOMETHING RATHER pathetic about the funeral oration which the Communist leader in Berlin delivered over the graves of those "reds" who paid with their lives for the demonstrations on May Day and afterwards. It included:

On these graves of our dead we swear to carry through the revolution, not only in Germany, but in the whole world. We will destroy governments, defy Socialist laws and set up dictatorships of the proletariat.

This is the voice crying in the wilderness. It cries over the graves of those who might still be living if the dreamers of world revolution were to eliminate destruction of this, that, and the other from their political tenets.

The Communist has about as much chance of making his dreams come true as he has of turning the moon into a baseball. Meanwhile, however, he is pursuing the process of elimination of his own ilk by demonstrations like those in Berlin.

THEY SHOULD GET TOGETHER

ALTHOUGH MUCH OF THEIR SPACE now is being devoted to domestic politics, there appears to be an insistent demand by a large number of Old Country newspapers that no matter what party shall be selected to form a Government after May 30, it should lose no time in co-operating with the United States in the cause of naval disarmament. The Daily Mirror, one of the most widely-read of the popular journals in Great Britain, expresses itself on this subject in the following simple terms:

May we insist, once again, that the first task of whatever Government may be returned to power at the end of May should be to reach a friendly understanding with the United States in the matter of naval disarmament?

It has been pointed out with almost monotonous frequency, but with none the less truth, that if Great Britain and the United States could reach an agreement on this question—with which, of course, is involved the "freedom of the seas"—the world would be given a lead which it would be unlikely to ignore. Upon the satisfactory conclusion of such an agreement, moreover, the way would be cleared for an even more practical solution of the whole problem—if it could be called—of international and permanent peace. What practical argument, for example, could be presented against an undertaking on the part of the British Empire and the United States to refuse supplies and money to nations which embarked upon war as a means of settling their differences?

In a threat of this kind Canada would be able to impose a very important prohibition. She could refuse to supply nickel and food. The United States could refuse to supply copper and cotton. London and New York could refuse to lend money to a belligerent. We shall be told that such proposals would be the proposals of the dreamer. Why should they be so regarded? Neither the British Empire nor the United States would suffer if they issued such a threat to the rest of the world. If it did not end war altogether, it would certainly reduce the ardor of the militarists. In the matter of naval disarmament, of course, it has been seriously stated that if the business of battleship building and the manufacture of armaments were to be discontinued, there would be widespread unemployment in the countries which agreed to do without these things, or if they agreed to get along with the minimum which police services might require.

The answer to this suggestion is that the world has come to a pretty pass if it must depend upon the production of implements of destruction to furnish employment. If this shall be accepted as an inescapable economic factor, our civilization by no means has received its last shock.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In reply to a question in parliament Monday Sir Austen Chamberlain said: "No, sir, trade with Russia has never been interrupted." He intimated that official relations had been broken, but not trading. There was evidently a misapprehension in Canada when the Russian trade agencies here were closed by the federal government and the agents requested to withdraw. An outcry was made in Canada by some who deemed it wicked to carry on trade with Russia. But the Soviet trade agencies in Britain, to the number of twenty or more, remained open and doing business as usual.—Toronto Star.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

BRITAIN AND WAR DEBTS
The Calgary Herald
Britain's generous treatment of her two chief European Allies in the matter of war debts has been inspired, if not compelled, by her anxiety to maintain the most friendly relations with them. Foreseeing that France will have to accept greatly reduced reparation from Germany, the British Government has reduced her own demands on France. It is generous, but it is not business. More and more it is apparent that Great Britain will, in the long run, be the chief loser from the Great War.

THE COST OF IMPERIAL DEFENCE
The Spectator (London)
We are by no means insensible to the needs of national security. We want security as much as anybody else. But, after all, how can it best be obtained? It is obvious that an adequate financial reserve is one of the chief lines of defence for any nation. If we had not had that reserve in the Great War we should not have been able to lend freely to our allies, and they might have involved us in a common defeat through want of money. At present we seem to be spending all our reserves. Yet there is now a period of calm during which it is perfectly safe to try many experiments in economy. If it turned out after a trial that economy on the fighting services did not advance general disarmament, it would still not be too late to resort to the traditional means of defence—and in the meantime we should have built up our financial reserve.

Loose Ends

This crusade for Good English and where it is going, if anywhere—along with certain speculations on our own Victoria dialect—with no conclusion thereon—but a real solution for farm problems.

By H. B. W.

AT THE recent admirable educational conference here, there was a great deal to do about the misuse of the English language, and many writers are busy now, I see, repeating and elaborating the advice imparted by the conference experts. In such a matter, as in most things, it is as well to know what you are driving at before you start to drive. And what are they driving at? Who is to say what is good English or bad? To all such questions there will be as many answers as there are English-speaking countries, and many more. Until the experts have settled these matters, however, their crusade will not go far because it hardly seems to know where it is going.

OUR ENGLISH, of course, is traditionally the King's and, as a matter of fact, the King uses very excellent English indeed as his distant Dominions have learned through the phonograph and the talks. Also, he speaks in a simple, unaffected accent, with a voice of peculiar strength and carrying power. But His Majesty must have difficulty in understanding the speech of many of his subjects only a few miles from Buckingham Palace. How many dialects there are in England I do not know, but it is only a few centuries back, as time goes, when an Englishman could make himself understood only in his own district and there was grave doubt as to which dialect would become the national language. This point Chaucer and Chaucer seem to have settled in favor of that spoken in the Midlands.

TO THIS day a Cornishman finds it hard to fathom the speech of a man from the northern counties. Next door to me lives an intelligent youth newly arrived from a farm some where in England, and I can't get one of his words in ten. He told me, for instance, that "T'weather be bad, zur, fer sartin!" I have no doubt that his speech has the authority of an antiquity of which we cannot boast in this new country. They have been talking that way in his district since shortly after the Conquest. If we are to go back to original sources which is to say that the present is not the perfect English which the experts are striving after? To be consistent, we should adopt Welsh or Gaelic, for they are the only authentic survivors of original good English, uncorrupted by Danish, Saxon, Latin and French. The idea, however, seems impractical.

ON THE other hand, if you go to the higher social circles of England, the hunter, the fisher, the sportsman, you find still another speech equally removed from that common in this country. In those circles, I am told, the "g" is never pronounced at the end of the present participles, and the letter "r" is in such low standing that it is never used at all, though it is seized upon and rolled trippingly to the tongue with gusto in Scotland and in the northern parts of England. There is still another difficulty in the way of a solution of this pressing problem. What would be good English in one climate would not suit another, for it is well known that geography vitally affects speech. The Puritans brought over on the Mayflower with them a nasal twang and contracted, no doubt, by chanting psalms through the nose, but in the pleasant atmosphere of Boston this has been toned down to a soft, sibilant speech, pleasant to the ear, while the hard climate of the prairies has produced there a robust and somewhat harsh pronunciation. But the classic example is our own Victoria climate, in which the tongue of fashionable London has in some cases evolved into a new language, unknown in any other part of the world. New arrivals from London think this speech is the odd result of the influence of the Coast Indian dialects upon the early traders.

IT IS pretty hard, therefore, to solve this problem of good English. To avoid dialectal rivalries and promote a new spirit of unity, the experts should assemble a standard code composed of all the dialects of England and the rest of the Empire, merged together. This composite speech would be interesting and quite unintelligible to all Britishers, including the men who invented it.

IF THE United States Congress really wants to solve the problem of farm relief it has only to go back to original sources, easily accessible, and provided by one of its own citizens. In Webster's grammar, still a standard authority, I find that farming is "the most healthy, the most innocent and the most agreeable employment of men." Blazon these words in the farming districts of America and the rest of the world, and then will the farmer follow his plough with a song on his lips, and smile to see his grain flourishing in his fields, even if he can't sell it, and there will be no more complaints to Congress and to Parliament. Surely the farmer will be content when he is informed by Mr. Webster that "the frolics of the harmless lambs, the songs of the cheerful birds are examples of innocence, beauty, simplicity and order which ought to impress good sentiments on the mind." And what satisfaction it is for him to know that agriculture is "the foundation of manufacture, and commerce is its child."

IF OUR modern farmers could only realize with Mr. Webster that farming is a state of mind, how comfortable it would be for all of us. Instead, we fast city people have corrupted our country cousins. They are not satisfied with the frolics of the innocent lambs any more, unless they also have a six-cylinder car like the rest of us to conduct a few frolics of their own. The cheerful birds impress

SAANICH AFFAIRS

To the Editor.—Permit me to draw attention to a few of the misleading statements made by Councillor Stubbs at the last meeting of the Saanich Council as reported in your paper of Friday's date. His objection to the consideration of a resolution forwarded by the Ward Four Ratepayers' Association on the grounds that the association was moribund (for the benefit of anyone not familiar with this word it means, in a state of decay, dying, rotten, and used by freight carriers to classify goods etc., to be handled) unable to elect officers, only carry on from month to month. This seems startling in view of the fact that Mr. Stubbs is a member of said association, and a full quota of officers and executive were elected at the annual meeting and regular meetings held.

In fact, in January of the present year, Mr. Stubbs had such a high opinion of the officers that he secured the signature of the president and secretary as his mover and seconder for nomination as councillor. His statements that Lake Road has been no expense to the municipality, and additional heavy grants have been provided from general municipal revenue would make an interesting address to the ratepayers. It is not his intention to enter into any controversy in the press on this matter as it is only of ward interest. However, in closing my first and last letter on the subject, I would suggest to Mr. Stubbs that he select two or three of his fellow councillors, have the ratepayers call a public meeting and select an equal number to debate the question of Lake Road and other roads of the Ward and find out the opinion of the people he is supposed to represent.

Takes Aeroplane To Rush Material For Motor Plant

The manner in which the long-distance telephone and the aeroplane can be co-ordinated in these modern days to bring about speedy results, was demonstrated the other day at the Leaside plant of Durant Motors of Canada Limited.

In the forenoon a break occurred in the chassis line so that it was exceedingly important that repairs be made with the least possible delay, owing to the heavy demand for Durant cars. It so happened that Mr. Arthur Thormahlen, plant engineer, was at the time attending an engineering convention in Windsor. He was immediately communicated with by long-distance telephone and told of the trouble. Mr. Thormahlen, realizing the necessity for immediate action, secured the necessary part and brought it to Toronto by aeroplane from Windsor. The chassis line which is adjacent to the Leaside Airfield, at a quarter to three, daylight saving time, the same day. Repairs were made to the chassis line immediately and the plant was soon again in full operation.

New Robot Air Machine to Fight Manless War

(Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times)

London, May 13.—How an operator in a chamber full of wires, mirrors and strange instruments will "project" himself through the air—he himself never leaving the chair in which he sits—is a new wonder of science which is now being discussed by the experts of a commission the French Government has established to study the problem of manless air machines. Picture to yourself a winged, pilotless apparatus looking like a huge metal flying fish, and with half a dozen circular "eyes" in front of its body. Such will be the robot of the air.

FLYING BY WIRELESS

An operator on the ground, seated before switches and levers, will "fly" this weird machine by wireless exactly as though he were aloft. When he shifts one of his controls the machine on high will obey, precisely as though a human hand had made the requisite movement in its cockpit. And experts now affirm that not only will the man on the ground be able to do things, but that he will also be able to see things, miles distant from his controls.

SCENES BY WIRELESS

The eyes of the machine, acting as lenses will, as it flies, focus on television cells within its body a picture of all that lies in the vicinity—everything above and below, in front or behind, or on either side. And all that the machine thus "sees" will be flashed back by wireless and reproduced upon screens in the control station. The most uncanny business of the mind of man has ever conceived! Such may be the warfare of the future. Fact will outstrip fiction. It may be a war of Frankenstein monsters, with out human occupants, which will rush along the land and across the sea and whirl at huge speeds through the air.

This Father Believes Dentist Pains Will Make Son Spartan

(Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times)

London, May 13.—We are not all as enlightened as we might be, even in 1929.

A dentist told me the other day of a stern father who brought his small son along for extractions, with an injunction that under no conditions was he to be given cocaine or gas.

"I object to them on principle" declared the father, "because the boy should be taught that it is wrong for such means; he should learn to endure it as a matter of course."

The dentist, being a humane man, refused to do the job.

"I wouldn't mind if it were for yourself," he told the parent, "but I don't consider you have a right to make the boy suffer for your theory!" The little fellow, presumably, was taken to a less sympathetic dentist to be tormented "on principle."

"Did you tell her when you proposed that you were unworthy of her? That always makes a good impression."

"I was going to—but she told me first."

"All that I am," declared the politician, "I owe to my mother."

"Well," exclaimed a voice from the back of the hall, "doesn't it feel great to be out of debt?"

HOW INTERESTING

"Thank goodness we can get B.C. vegetables twelve months in the year. And the peas! My dear, there are three firms here canning the most delicious peas you ever tasted. In fact, B.C. peas are now recognized as superior to any on the market."

"How interesting—and I suppose that means employment for many people in the canned vegetable industry." "It certainly does—3,000 of them."

SPRUCED UP!

Paris or New York may set the styles for women in most places, but girls in Hoquiam, Wash., veneer plants, who handle the machinery that unwinds long ribbons of veneer from great spruce logs, are "sprucing up" for Spring in a style all their own. They make their dresses out of wood. At first the thin spruce veneer warped but they stained the wood in oil and it is now pliable and doesn't wear out. The picture shows Edna Coates, one of the "spruce girls."

MacDonald Ridicules British Conservatives' "Safety First" Slogan

Seaham, Durham, Eng., May 13.—The Conservative election slogan of "Safety First" was the subject of more ironic remarks by Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, in an address following his adoption as Labor candidate in Seaham on Saturday.

"The paralyzed mind, which in the face of all our distress and the urgency of our vital and unsolved problems can only gasp in terror, 'Safety First,' is the apostle of stagnation and the creator of revolution," he declared.

Mr. MacDonald described himself as a "believer in Socialist ideas," who would do his best to apply them in a business-like way as the solution of industrial difficulties and the way to national prosperity. A Labor Government would eventually nationalize the coal industry, concentrate on clearance of the slums, amplify maternity benefits, protect children's health through pre-natal clinics, facilitate education, pass the factories bill, ratify the Washington Eight-hour convention and amend the workmen's compensation measure and trade union law so the grave and insulting injustice done the industrial combinations of workmen would not continue, he declared. It would further sanction an inquiry into the condition of the cotton and iron trades.

CRASH OF PLANE KILLS BROTHERS

Los Angeles, May 13.—Raymond Kettenhofen, twenty-three, an amateur pilot, and his brother, Gordon Kettenhofen, thirty-six, were killed in the crash of a borrowed aeroplane in a windstorm near Compton, a suburb of Los Angeles, shortly after noon yesterday.

The brothers borrowed the machine, an antiquated Curtiss biplane model, from Theodore Jenks at the Compton Airport for a flight to Long Beach, Calif. Shortly after the take-off witnesses said the plane apparently struck a heavy wind. The pilot evidently sought to turn back, they said, but the motor of the plane was seen to stop while the machine was in a bank. The plane fell 300 feet to the ground, both men being killed instantly.

The pilot, a radio repair man, and his brother, a bank teller, both lived in Los Angeles.

Memphis, Tenn., May 13.—An advocate of the literal application of the Scriptural injunction that women shall be silent in church found scant support in the Southern Baptist Convention here Saturday and the particular woman about whom the controversy has been so much discussed, Mrs. W. J. Cox of Memphis, president of the women's missionary union, to make an address.

Only a few scattered "ayes" were heard in the convention hall when the President, Dr. George W. Truett, put the question as to whether the body should rescind its invitation to Mrs. W. J. Cox of Memphis, president of the women's missionary union, to make an address.

The motion to take back the invitation had been made by the Rev. Dr. J. W. Porter, Lexington, Ky., who presented a memorial from Kentucky Baptists upholding his view. He argued that the idea of a woman speaking at a Baptist meeting was repugnant to the Bible expressly says for women to keep silent in church and that the Scriptures teach that women are subject to men. He even went so far as to say that he would as soon substitute sprinkling for immersion as to vote for a woman to speak.

Dr. Porter saw in the invitation an effort to "please the sisters and get more money."

"It's trading God for gold," the Kentuckian said. He referred to another place of Biblical history in his argument, remarking, "Eve tempted Adam, and now the Southern Baptist convention is tempting women. Women would do all right if the petticoated preachers would let them alone."

Chapter's Tea Musical.—The Royal Bridge Chapter, I.O.D.E., will hold a tea musical on Saturday afternoon, May 18, at the Y.W.C.A.

Memphis, Tenn., May 13.—An advocate of the literal application of the Scriptural injunction that women shall be silent in church found scant support in the Southern Baptist Convention here Saturday and the particular woman about whom the controversy has been so much discussed, Mrs. W. J. Cox of Memphis, president of the women's missionary union, to make an address.

Only a few scattered "ayes" were heard in the convention hall when the President, Dr. George W. Truett, put the question as to whether the body should rescind its invitation to Mrs. W. J. Cox of Memphis, president of the women's missionary union, to make an address.

The motion to take back the invitation had been made by the Rev. Dr. J. W. Porter, Lexington, Ky., who presented a memorial from Kentucky Baptists upholding his view. He argued that the idea of a woman speaking at a Baptist meeting was repugnant to the Bible expressly says for women to keep silent in church and that the Scriptures teach that women are subject to men. He even went so far as to say that he would as soon substitute sprinkling for immersion as to vote for a woman to speak.

Dr. Porter saw in the invitation an effort to "please the sisters and get more money."

"It's trading God for gold," the Kentuckian said. He referred to another place of Biblical history in his argument, remarking, "Eve tempted Adam, and now the Southern Baptist convention is tempting women. Women would do all right if the petticoated preachers would let them alone."

Comfortable Vision

It is not so long ago since the only aid the Optometrist could give was the improvement of vision. Modern scientific developments and optometric research have made many discoveries in recent years. The new Optometry can give comfortable use of the eyes where glasses alone have failed to relieve.

One may have good vision with glasses or without glasses and yet have serious discomfort. These conditions are now better understood, and are being corrected by the new technique. Have us diagnose your eyesight conditions.

Charge Is Made Baldwin Ministry Not Aiding Peace

Burnley, Lancashire, Eng., May 13 (Canadian Press Cable)—Challenging Premier Baldwin to point to a single act of his Government which had promoted world peace, Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, former Labor minister, addressed a meeting here Saturday.

"The Locarno treaties were born in an atmosphere of reconciliation created by the efforts of Ramsay MacDonald and his colleagues at the Fifth Assembly of the League of Nations," he said. "The first act of the Conservative Government was to tear to tatters a protocol drawn up."

He contended the suspicion caused by the Government's policy in connection with the Anglo-French naval agreement had never been removed.

THE SUN AND FEW CLOTHES CONSTITUTE SUMMER SUNBATH

Mrs. R. E. C. writes:—"Some time ago I wrote you concerning the care of my fourteen-month-old baby's hair and her discipline, but I failed to see the answer in the paper. Will you please advise about the following?"

"Shall I give her orange juice this summer? I have no trouble getting her to eat according to the diet in your feeding leaflet and she is never constipated. Shall I give her sunbaths this summer? She is very spry and lively, never sick and has walked since the eleventh month. She has six teeth."

"I gave her sunbaths all summer, as she was very slow teething. People tell me that teeth which come in late are stronger. What do you think of that?"

ANSWER

I am always sorry when readers fail to see their answers, not only because of their disappointment, but my wasted efforts. Perhaps you haven't waited long enough. Sometimes readers expect miracles, and three weeks would be the very shortest time in which one could expect to get an answer through the paper. Occasionally an editor cuts out a daily article, and that might be the very one which had your answer. This is a matter over which I have no control. I am glad you tried again.

Ontario Fugitive Is Captured By Police

London, Ont., May 13.—Orval Shaw, elusive burglar of Bank's money, who has defied police for months, was captured last night in the middle of the swamp in Kent County in which he had hidden after a pitched battle with constables. In the melee, seized beside a brick pile, in almost the exact centre of Bank's money. Provincial Constable Thomas Ridings of London and County Constable Northcott of Alvinston were slightly injured by the fugitive as he hurled half bricks in a futile effort to stay off capture.

Shaw is wanted in more than a score of Southern Ontario centres on charges of petty theft.

$12,000,000 LEGACY BRINGS FRESH GRIEF TO RICH PARISIENNE

Madame Berthelet Jaubert, (right), and her daughter Marie are burdened with sorrow and trouble because distant relatives have left them too many millions of dollars.

Paris, May 13.—An aged peasant woman, wept copious tears. Her buxom daughter, visibly alarmed, paced across their humble living room carrying a cablegram. More trouble had come into their lives. They had just received word from Australia that they had inherited $12,000,000 from a distant relative who had died in Australia.

The hand of Midas is proving too heavy for Mme. Berthelet Jaubert and her daughter Marie. Only a year ago another distant relative in the United States died and left her a fortune estimated at $10,000,000.

HOW FORTUNE CAME TO THEM

This new "blow" came after an aged cousin, whom Mme. Jaubert had not seen since childhood, was killed in an automobile accident in the Blue Mountains of Australia between Sydney and Melbourne.

But the sudden wealth has meant only misery to the two women. Instead of stepping out and enjoying the rich things in life, they prefer to remain quiet and live modestly. They have no wish for clothes, jewels, motor cars and a fine mansion in the capital.

News of the first fortune centered attention on the two women and they were immediately besieged by salesmen, lawyers, beggars, financial tricksters and representatives of charitable institutions. All their old friends and neighbors let them know that they, too, could use a few million francs, and because they didn't get anything bad feeling arose. To escape attention the women got rid of their old home and moved to an inconspicuous place where they were not known.

Election Campaign In South Africa

Capetown, South Africa, May 13 (Canadian Press via Reuters)—The general election campaign in the Union of South Africa, which will choose a new Parliament June 12, has been unusually quiet for the past few weeks, after the initial political battles, but it is expected to warm up considerably after the nominations next Wednesday.

The standing of the parties in the last House of Assembly was: Nationalists 63, South African Party 54, Labor 17, Independent 1; total 135.

As a result of the latest reallocation of seats the number has been increased to 148.

Both the Government under Premier J. B. Hertzog, a Nationalist-Labor coalition, and the opposition, composed of South African Party members under former Premier J. C. Smuts, profess confidence in the outcome.

ISLE OF JAVA IS SETTING FOR PICTURE

"Wild Orchids" Title of Film Now Showing at Capitol
Greta Garbo Has Leading Role in Oriental Screen Production

Java—that island of exotic appeal at the foot of the Malay Peninsula—was the spot chosen by John Colton, the playwright, and Sidney Franklin, director, for Greta Garbo's newest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle, "Wild Orchids," which opened an engagement at the Capitol Theatre today.

Mr. Colton showed some time before what he could do with tropical or oriental settings, in "Rain" and "The Shanghai Gesture," two stage dramas which were among the most successful of all recent Broadway plays. "Wild Orchids" has an even more fascinating background than either of these plays.

Java is a land about which westerners, most of them, know very little—a country where tigers and elephants make better hunting than hares and grouse.

Miss Garbo demonstrated her unique screen talent in "The Temptress," "Flesh and the Devil," "The Mysterious Lady" and other films of pleasant remembrance, but it is doubtful whether she has ever had a part so perfectly patterned for her special ability as "Wild Orchids."

On the stage for this week are Larry Delaney, the well-known comedian, Scott and Van Valley in a novelty piano and singing specialty, and Billie Rheams and Lee Jaxon in their latest songs and patter. Jack Medford, the singing and dancing M.C., and Chris Wade and his Capitol Stage Band with the overture "The Song I Love" and a request number, "Maybe It's Yours," complete the bill.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday.

"Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life" (John 5:24) was one of the scriptural texts contained in the lesson-sermon.

Following the reading of the Bible texts, passages were also read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, one passage being the following from page 470: "The children of God have but one mind. How can good lapse into evil, when God, the Mind of man, never sins? The standard of perfection was originally God and man. Has God taken down His own standard, and has man fallen?"

Effective May 12, the afternoon boat to Vancouver will leave Victoria daily at 1:45.

Ricardo Cortez Plays Lead In "Grains Of Dust"

Beautiful Claire Windsor Plays Opposite Star in Playhouse Film

David Graham Phillips was one of America's most famous novelists and, in "The Grain of Dust," his sensational story delineating a man's struggle against the allure of the wrong woman, he has dramatically set forth problems of the world, the supremacy of sex over the other basic instincts. It is a theme so fraught with drama that any serious presentation of it would be interesting, and the picture version which Tiffany Stahl has produced and which is showing at the Playhouse Theatre to-day has, in addition to its absorbing plot, a more than ordinarily intelligent cast and George Archambault's splendid direction.

Ricardo Cortez plays with feeling and understanding the difficult role of the young engineer who meets disaster through a woman just as he is about to reach the heights of his profession. Claire Windsor is appealing and beautiful as the girl he loves with all the fineness in him, but who is helpless to save him from a certain amount of heartache.

No better choice could have been made than Alma Bennett for the role of the scheming little stenographer who is the "grain of dust" of the title—that tiny atom that, whether entangled in a man's senses or in the fine mechanism of a watch, causes trouble. Other roles are excellently interpreted by Richard Tucker, Claire Delmar, Jed Prouty and John St. Polis.

"Dream Of Love" Perfume Forms Basis Of Film

George Jessel Has Leading Role in Columbia Picture

"Sailor Izzy Murphy" with George Jessel is the Warner Bros. production at the Columbia Theatre this week. Jessel plays the title role of Izzy Murphy, a resourceful young perfumery salesman. In an attempt to sell his "Dream of Love" perfume to M. Jules, a wealthy merchant, Izzy falls in love with his daughter, and is at once kicked out.

Urged by his partner to prefer charges, Izzy is trying to serve papers on M. Jules, when he hears that the rich man has left with Marie for parts unknown. He rushes to the pier where he finds the yacht in charge of manacles under the leadership of one "Orchid Joe."

Izzy introduces himself as a fellow nut and soon wins Joe's confidence. After a series of rollicking and unbelievable ludicrous escapades, Sailor Izzy wins the pretty Mlle. Marie.

Jessel is extremely amusing as the hero and Audrey Ferris's work convinces us that she really is the great find Warner Bros. boast her to be. Warner Oland, John Miljan, Otto Lederer, Clara Horton and Theodore Lorch are in the cast. Henry Lehrman directed.

"That rich uncle of John's is worrying about what our married future will be," said the bride-to-be. "Yeah," said her chum, "and what are you worrying about?" "What his wedding present will be," she replied.

ORGANIST IS LEAVING POST

Harold Davis Thanked For Services at Keyboard of Christ Church Organ

After serving as organist and choir-master at Christ Church Cathedral for more than six years, Harold Davis is relinquishing the position in view of anticipated requirements in the new cathedral making larger claims upon the time of the occupant of that office.

In announcing Mr. Davis's retirement, the Dean of Columbia said of him: "Mr. Davis has labored with conspicuous conscientiousness and devotion. The clergy and chorists will view his departure with genuine regret and a sense of real loss."

Mr. Davis has had particular success in training the boy chorists at the cathedral. On several occasions, both at Vancouver and in this city, the boys' choir has participated in the annual musical festivals. Besides winning shields, the boys and Mr. Davis have had the satisfaction of receiving high commendation from the adjudicators.

The appointment of a successor to Mr. Davis has been placed by the cathedral authorities in the hands of Dr. Sydney Nicholson, formerly organist and choir-master of the Royal Chapel of Windsor, and Warden of the College of St. Nicholas, Chislehurst, Kent. Dr. Nicholson toured the Dominion a few years ago with the organ choir, and is acquainted with local conditions.

Australia Protests U.S. Tariff Increases

Washington, May 13.—Australia, the British Empire here, has submitted to the State Department a memorandum dealing with the proposed readjustment of United States tariff schedules.

"The Government of the Commonwealth believes," the memorandum says, "that increasing pressure will tend to divert Australian trade from the United States to British Empire countries and to foreign countries with which the Commonwealth has favorable trade relations."

Comedy Farce Is Offering At Coliseum

Popular Group of Players Will Present "Pop Goes the Weasel" All This Week

Screen Attraction Is "The Case of Lena Smith" Starring Esther Ralston

With another of their popular farce comedies, in which they appear at their finest, the Coliseum Players, under the direction of Raymond "Toby" Leitch, will open the current week at the Coliseum Theatre this evening, commencing at 8:20 o'clock. The title of this week's presentation is "Pop Goes the Weasel," and judging from the name of the show, there is plenty of enjoyment in store for all who visit the Coliseum this week. The Players will appear every evening during the week with matinee performances on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

As usual, the clever and capable Coliseum cast will be on the stage to give their usual pleasing performances. Headed by the popular Toby Leitch, and Miss Leone Webber, the others being Miss Ada Daniels, Miss Esther Todd, Lorus Bagley, Leon Cluff, Forrest Taylor and Paul Wallace.

ON THE SCREEN
In "The Case of Lena Smith," which opens a seven-day run at the Coliseum Theatre to-night, Esther Ralston has her greatest dramatic opportunity and she grasps it with all the talent which has made her one of the outstanding motion picture actresses of the day. She has built up a solid following with her beauty and her charm and, sometimes, as in "The Case of Lena Smith," she has had the chance to demonstrate that great dramatic force of which she is capable.

"The Case of Lena Smith" is something no one will want to miss under any circumstances. It is a story of mother-love in the Josef von Sternberg manner. It has the same marks of the master that made "Underworld," "The Last Command," "The Drag Net" and "The Docks of New York" four of the outstanding pictures in the past decade. Von Sternberg stands head and shoulders above the rank and file of Hollywood directors and, on this picture, he leaves the indelible mark of his personality.

The story is laid in Vienna and in the nearby countryside. It covers a period of twenty years from 1894 to 1914, and Miss Ralston plays the dual role of a young girl and a mother of forty. James Hall, the popular young leading man, has the chief supporting role and the versatile Fred Kohler has an important part.

The color, the life, the people of gay Vienna are faithfully represented and the realistic scenes, evidencing a wealth of research in their reproduction, have an interest all their own. It is surely another of the screen's great masterpieces.

MORE ANTIQUITIES FOUND AT SOOKE

Remains of Early Human Inhabitants of This Coast Found; Small Frames

Sooke Harbor, May 13.—The historic dagger, which was excavated at Whiffen Spit last week has been taken to Victoria by Claude L. Harrison, student of Island history. The dagger was found to be an old Spanish weapon, left here by some of the crews of the early Spanish exploring ships.

Searches have been under way here for discovery of other relics, and a few days ago the crew working on the construction of the new breakwater dug up well preserved anthropological remains of what is declared to be one of the early human inhabitants on this coast. The shape and size of the bones vestiges indicate a human considerably smaller in size than the white man of to-day. Some of those investigating it is possible that this discovery is proof that some of the small stature races from the Orient came this far south in their explorations, which carried them up around Siberia and along the coast of what is now Alaska.

NATIONALISTS WIN IN QUEENSLAND

Brisbane, Australia, May 13 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—Contrary to expectations, the general election for the Queensland Legislature Saturday resulted in a crushing defeat for the Labor Government. Before the election the Laborites had 43 seats and the Nationalists 20, the new figures giving the Nationalists 44 and Labor 26, with two Independents. The Speaker of the House was defeated, as well as three and possibly four Ministers.

The prime factor in the election was the Nationalists' scheme to cure unemployment in the state. For the first time in the history of Queensland a woman candidate was elected. Among the Ministers defeated were the Secretaries of Railways, of Labor and Industry and of Public Lands. Commenting on the election results, The Sydney Morning Herald says: "If Labor ever had a chance to put its high-faluting principles into practice it was in Queensland. The railways have an accumulated deficit of £17,000,000, the unemployed number 201,000, public services are greatly over-manned, the cost of living is higher than anywhere else in Australia, house rentals have tripled and the cost of living is quadrupled. It seems clear the trade unionists voted heavily against their political leaders."

Mrs. Prim (shocked)—Doesn't dare go? Why?

Mrs. Glim—Last Sunday the pastor prayed for the loose livers of the parish. After the service my husband asked him if he wouldn't slip in a few words about his floating kidney—and the minister threw a hymn book at him.

POWER BATTLE FIGHT BEFORE CABINET TO-DAY

One of Great Power Organizations of U.S. Bids For Campbell Falls

Crown Willamette Company Claims Definite and Prior Right

Entrance of the International Utilities Corporation, one of the United States great power organizations into the contest for control of Campbell River waterpower on Vancouver Island was announced Saturday as final preparations were made for the disposal of this valuable resource.

The International Utilities Corporation, according to advices received at the Parliament Buildings, has reached an agreement with the Campbell River Power Company, one of the four applicants for the Campbell River power.

PROBATES GRANTED

Probates and administrations issued out of the Supreme Court last week included the following estates:

Susanna Harris Day, re-sealing of Irish Free State probate, total estate $165,460, B.C. estate $4,680.

Robert Gibson R. Badcock, re-sealing of English probate, total estate $31,214, B.C. estate $7,842.

George William Dixon, late of Victoria, who died at Vancouver on February 15, 1919, estate $5,474.

Frederick George Heal, late of Telkwa, B.C., who died at Telkwa on March 6, 1927, estate $4,750.

Sidney Frederick Weston, late of Victoria, who died at Victoria on April 9, 1929, estate $2,175.

Lucy Louise Burrows, late of Victoria, who died at Victoria on April 7, 1929, estate $2,041.

by which it will take over any rights which the latter may secure from the Water Board. If the Campbell River Company is granted a water right the International Utilities Corporation will handle the development of it for commercial purposes, the Government has been advised.

INTERESTED ON ISLAND

This arrangement has been made through the subsidiary Canadian Utilities Corporation, it was stated at the Parliament Buildings. That concerned an extensive way in Canada now and is anxious to increase its business here. It recently acquired power plants at Duncan and Nanaimo and owns natural gas works at Calgary.

What the Canadian Utilities Corporation would do with the Campbell River powers has not been outlined yet but will be explained to the Water Board it is expected when that tribunal hears all applications for Campbell River powers at a sitting to commence next Wednesday.

Another important development in the battle of giant companies for control of the great island waterpower was announced that the Crown Willamette Company of Canada would appear before the Cabinet Monday and assert that it already has definite and prior rights on Campbell River. T. D. Pattullo, as Minister of Lands, had taken official steps during his term of office to give the Crown Willamette Company a water right for pulp and paper manufacturing purposes and the company insists that the present Government must honor this arrangement.

The Government some time ago refused to recognize any priority rights on the river and cancelled all old reserves existing on it, so that all applicants could have an equal opportunity before the Water Board.

Representatives of the Campbell River Company, the B.C. Power Corporation and the Strathcona Power and Pulp Company also are expected to attend to-day's meeting with the cabinet, which will be preliminary to the Water Board's hearing and will be entirely without legal effect. When one of these four applicants asked for the right to appear before the cabinet, it was decided to invite the other three as well.

PLANE ACCIDENT

Pittsburg, Cal., May 13.—An aeroplane piloted by J. M. Joseph struck a string of high tension wires and caught fire as it was taking off from the airport here yesterday. Joseph, deputy sheriff of Contra Costa County, brought the burning plane to earth and with the aid of two passengers extinguished the flames. The plane was damaged considerably, but no one was injured.

Dumping Duty Advocated By Market Leader

High Transportation Costs Not Responsible For Poor Returns, Says Grant

Blunt warning to British Columbia fruit and vegetable growers that they face an almost impossible barrier to success in Canadian prairie markets unless they secure an adequate dumping duty against United States imports is contained in the annual report of J. A. Grant, B.C. markets commissioner, made public at the Department of Agriculture.

This authoritative review of the prairie market situation, couched in much franker terms than is usual in official documents, informs the agriculturists of this Province, in effect, that American dumping and not high transportation costs is responsible for unsatisfactory returns on prairie shipments. Railway rates in Canada are as much as those covering shipments from competitive points in the United States, the report says, and the total cost of shipment is slightly in favor of British Columbia producers. Selling of American products below the cost of production at shipping points is the real basis of grave difficulties which the British Columbia farming industry has faced of late years, and which apparently it will face again this season.

REACH PEAK EARLY

This difficulty is accentuated, the commissioner states, by the fact that Southern United States points are passing their peak and lowest prices prevail when Canadian products are ready to roll. In the case of certain vegetables, such as asparagus, spinach, peas and broccoli, production cannot get a profitable start without an assurance against dump competition, it is asserted.

Dealing with the strawberry markets of last year, the report states that losses were due to several contributory causes—wet weather at points of distribution, the soft condition of fruit at destination and a supply of Missouri berries of excellent quality imported during two weeks ahead of the British Columbia season.

Some interesting facts in connection with the United States berries are given by the commissioner as the result of a visit to Missouri. The variety grown is the Aroma. Over 2,500 cars were produced last year in Missouri. As many as 200 cars were sold by auction in one day at peak of season. Their peak usually comes at the time when British Columbia starts shipping. Only a few buyers attend the auction and they represent the large jobbing houses of nearly all centres in the United States and Canada. When berries are over-produced for the fresh fruit market and buyers cannot find an outlet for all the offerings the balance is sent on consignment usually to markets already supplied.

HIGHER TARIFF IS ONLY REMEDY

The same condition that upset the opening of the strawberry deal upset the hothouse tomato deal, as heavy shipments of imported field-grown stuff had been received early enough to prevent British Columbia shippers from getting good prices for their first offerings, the market commissioner asserts, and suggests that the only remedy is a higher tariff on field-grown tomatoes. British Columbia field tomatoes, on the other hand, were well marketed, and while prices were not high they were satisfactory.

Grape growing in sheltered places throughout the Okanagan could be made a real factor in fruit shipped fresh to the British Columbia and prairie market, the commissioner states. Grapes from Kelowna found a ready market last year, as those from Ontario were not ready to ship until after the British Columbia grapes were off the market.

Export of apples was forced upon the Associated Growers and the sales service to the advantage of the small shippers who marketed all their holdings at prairie points in more profitable markets than the export markets, the report indicates, and suggests that some means must be devised to equalize returns as between those bearing the brunt of export and those not sharing the burden. It is suggested that this might be by way of bonus on exports or by order of the committee of direction setting a proportion of export trade assigned to all shippers.

Effective May 13, the afternoon boat to Vancouver will leave Victoria daily at 1:45.

FIREWORKS FOR MAY 24

Aerial streams of fire similar to that shown in the illustration will flash out on the Victoria skyline on the evening of May 24. The fireworks are being manufactured specially for the occasion by Thomas G. Hitt, internationally known maker of pyrotechnics, who is preparing a special display in honor of his former home town. Mr. Hitt secured his start in Victoria, making his first fireworks at a small factory in Victoria West, in 1899. A grand display of fireworks will be part of the May 24 proceedings when Victoria and its environs will be host to large numbers of out-of-town visitors.

FIRE TOLL IS OVER $2,000,000

Premiums Written on Property in B.C. Over $350,000 Higher Last Year

Fire insurance premiums recorded in British Columbia last year showed an increase of over $350,000 over the previous year, the annual report on fire insurance and losses for 1928, just issued by H. G. Garrett, superintendent of insurance, shows.

The net premiums for 1928 amounted to $6,002,714.81. The net amount of losses incurred totaled $2,162,211.30. The net amount of losses paid is $2,000,328.38. The premiums paid the previous year were $5,653,976.51. The losses incurred amounted to $2,003,790.62 and the net amount of losses paid to $2,432,973.37, losses paid showing an increase of roughly $250,000.

AUTO INSURANCE TOTALS HIGHER

Companies Percentages of Losses Were Also Heavier in 1928

Insurance premiums written on automobiles in British Columbia in the year 1928 totalled $1,561,318.20 and losses incurred amounted to $914,911.58 according to a report just issued by H. G. Garrett, superintendent of insurance.

This is an increase in both totals over that of the previous year when automobile owners paid premiums amounting to $1,319,518.45 and net losses incurred amounted to $770,171.42.

In the ratio of losses incurred to premiums earned the London and Scottish Insurance Company heads the list with a figure of $235.28. On $302.85 premiums written the company paid claims amounting to $572.00. This, however, was on a small amount of business written, the average loss for all companies being a ratio of 64.1. This is greater than last year when the total was 58.03.

The Merchants Casualty Company heads the list in net premiums earned with a total of $85,827.25. The losses incurred by the company amounted to $99,888.56, a ratio of 81.60. Premiums earned by the Royal Insurance Company amounted to $70,719.60 with losses incurred of $49,321.03, a ratio of 69.82.

AVIATION COMPANIES NOW EXPANDING FAST

New York, May 13.—The Aviation Corporation now has control of the Fairchild Aviation Corporation, the Embury-Riddle Aviation Corporation, Southern Air Transport and Roosevelt Field Incorporated, and plans to take over, or now has large stock holdings, in Universal Air Lines, serving the Middle West, and Colonial Airways Company.

The corporation now has an option on the rights to make in this country the German Rohrbach flying boats, the largest seaplanes in the world, and the Armstrong-Siddeley Motors of England. The company will acquire a substantial interest in Bendix Aviation Corporation and, it is rumored, will establish a second transcontinental airway across the United States following a southern route. United Aircraft and Transport Corporation and its subsidiary, Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Corporation, have obtained options on 500 acres of land at East Hartford, Conn., for the erection of a plant to make Wasp and Hornet motors.

ISLAND ATTRACTS U.S. FOX FARMER

R. Huff Realizes Advantages of Breeding Here; Will Establish Farm on Island

R. Huff, a fox farmer from Oregon, who was here last week investigating the possibilities of fox farming on Vancouver Island, was not only enthralled by the undoubted advantages that the Island has over any other place that he has seen, but on meeting foxmen here, was fully convinced that they had learned two most important points in successful fox raising, referred to the great detriment he had found in the feeding of horse meat to foxes, especially during the month of January and was glad to note that fox farmers here had discovered this error. In his experience he had been unable to successfully and properly look after young foxes in the Spring of the year without wooden or concrete bottoms in the breeding pens. He also heartily endorsed the use of large exercising pens.

Local fox farmers are pleased to learn that Mr. Huff has taken an option on what he considers an ideal location for an up-to-date fox farm, and has returned to Oregon to dispose of his interests there, excepting a number of Canadian national registered foxes.

He purposes to have his farm established here for the breeding season of 1930, and stock it with local bred high class animals.

The new Irish pupil at a big boarding school excited much curiosity by his habit of talking to himself. "One day a senior boy stopped him and asked with a supercilious smile, "Why on earth are you always chattering to yourself."

"Ehure, for two very good reasons."

"What are they?"

"Well, beaded, one is that I like to listen to a sensible man, and the other is that I like to talk to a sensible man."

New York Giants Fail To Show Expected Strength

Badly In Need Of Wins As Cards and Chicago Set Pace

McGraw's Team, Rated As One of Favorites to Win National League Pennant, Unable to Hit Their Stride; Held to 6-6 Draw Yesterday by Chicago in Eleven Innings; St. Louis Wins; New York Yankees Take Another Licking From Detroit and Are Tied With Philadelphia for Lead; Roger Peckinpaugh Suspended.

With the first Western invasion of the Polo Grounds drifting into its final phase, the New York Giants remain in sad need of victories as the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs make the race out in front together.

The Giants played a six-all tie with the Cubs yesterday before a capacity crowd of 50,000. The game was broken up at the end of the eleventh by a sudden rainstorm.

The Cardinals defeated Brooklyn, the score this time was 13-7 giving the Cardinals a sweep of three games.

The Cincinnati Reds had little difficulty in subduing the Boston Braves at Boston yesterday. The final score was 9-3, behind the fine left-hand pitching of Rixey.

Philadelphia and the Pittsburgh Pirates got the day off because no Sunday ball is played in either city.

The American League race was plunged into a deadlock as the Detroit Tigers won their second straight from the Yankees, while the Philadelphia Athletics met with a defeat in the lead by 9-7. It was Walter Hoyt's first defeat.

The St. Louis Browns took it out on the poor Boston Red Sox yesterday by a score of 15-3 in a game broken up in the seventh by rain.

The Chicago White Sox pulled out a victory over the Washington Senators for old Red Faber by 3-2.

PECKINPAUGH SET DOWN

While rain cost the Indians a fat Sunday take in at Cleveland, Roger Peckinpaugh was set down for five days by E. S. Barnard, president of the American League for the part he had played in Saturday's disturbance.

Peckinpaugh protested a decision which fans resented with such vigor that Emmett Omsby, the umpire, was severely injured by being struck on the head by a flying bottle.

New York, May 13.—The Giants and Cubs played a spirited 6-6 tie in 11 innings yesterday. Nine of the twelve runs were directly due to four base hits. Cuyler and Wilson hit early homers for the Cubs, while Ott retaliated for the Giants, the bases being empty on each occasion.

R. H. E.
Cincinnati 9 11 0
Boston 3 9 5

Washington 2 4 2
Chicago 3 10 3
Batteries—Hadley and Tate; Feber and Crouse.

Detroit, May 13.—With a crowd of 45,000 making life miserable for outfielders, the Detroit Tigers showed the Yankees down into a tie for first place in the American League yesterday. The Athletics, who were rained out in Cleveland, the score was 9 to 7. Hoyt was mated to the tune of 16 hits in seven innings before Hilder Huggins substituted Ed Wells, who once was a Tiger himself.

New York 7 8 2
Detroit 9 16 1
Batteries—Hoyt, Wells and Jorgens; Whitehill, Stoner and Phillips.

St. Louis, May 13.—The Browns went on hitting rampage yesterday and lambasted three Boston hurlers for 18 blows to win the final game of the series 15 to 3, in seven innings. The game was called because of a downpour of rain.

Schlag and McGowan hit for the circuit, accounting for four runs.

COAST LEAGUE

Sacramento, Cal., May 13.—The Missions swept the entire series with the Sacramento Senators yesterday by winning both games 10 to 4, and 11 to 2. The Sacs made no threat to win either game as Belton held them in check in the winning hit in the eighth and Plette came back in the ninth to pitch a good performance. Camilli's homer over the centerfield fence in Stockton was the high light of the game. Gould and Keating were passed in the afternoon.

TWO LOCAL TEAMS ARE DEFEATED

Esquimalt and Saanich Thistles Both Pass Out of Provincial Soccer Series

Dockers Fall Before Sapperton Here 5-0; Thistles Lose to Royals 7-2

Outclassing their opponents, Sapperton, Vancouver First Division team, advanced to the semi-finals of the Province Cup series, by defeating Esquimalt 5-0 at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday afternoon. The mainlanders had a big edge in both halves although they were only able to obtain a one-goal lead at half time. The visitors played a fine, short passing game that had the Esquimalt halves and backs guessing all the time.

PERFORMS "HAT-TRICK"

D'Easum was the hero of the Sapperton victory, performing the "hat-trick" in the second half. He is a fine footballer and gave an exhibition well worth seeing. Two of his goals were scored on shots from difficult angles.

Kicking with the sun at their backs in the first half Sapperton dominated the play from the kick-off and eight minutes after the start Jim Wood, captain, while Sandford, the Sapperton goalie, pushed the other behind the goal. John Watt had a fine chance to tie the count, breaking through with only the goalie to beat, but his shot was weak and Sandford cleared.

From this stage of the game until half-time Esquimalt played their best and should have at least found the net for one goal. Banks put in a couple of good long shots, one grazing the goal, while Sandford, the Sapperton goalie, pushed the other behind the goal. John Watt had a fine chance to tie the count, breaking through with only the goalie to beat, but his shot was weak and Sandford cleared.

Against Miss Bouman, the United States won two of its three matches with a picked Dutch women's tennis team yesterday, second day of the international series. With three matches still to be played, the United States holds a lead of four to two.

Miss Wills and Marjorie Morrill of Dedham, Mass., accounted for United States victories yesterday while Edith Cross of San Francisco was losing her second singles match of the series.

Miss Wills decisively defeated K. Bouman, first ranking Dutch woman player, in straight sets, 5-1, 6-1; Miss Morrill conquered Miss Canters 9-7, 7-5; Miss Cross was beaten by Rola Coquerelle, 6-3, 1-6.

Miss Wills and Marjorie Morrill, the title holder did not depend upon speed alone but on accuracy and a constant shift from long to short game.

Back again. Although Miss Bouman could take only two games she put up a gallant struggle for every point, sometimes prolonging the rallies to a dozen returns.

In an exhibition mixed doubles match, Miss Wills and Hans Timmer, Dutch men's champion, were beaten by Miss Bouman and A. Diemer-Koel, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

McDUFFY

By BARRIE PAYNE

New York, May 13.—At thirty-six, bold Michael McDuffey, former lightweight champion of the world, returns to the ring to-night after a retirement of nearly a year.

The Irishman, who twice held the 175-pound crown, hung up his gloves, apparently for good, after his one-round knockout by Tuffy Griffiths last September. Now he is booked to fight Paul Hoffman of Holland in the semi-final bout at the St. Nicholas Arena to-night.

Turner started the scoring in the first five minutes. Kerr beat the Saanich backs and passed to Stobart, who pushed the other along to Turner, who made no mistake about it. Russell put the Islanders behind two behind when he got the ball from a corner kick and drove it into the net shortly after.

COULTER GETS ONE

Five minutes later Coulter added another from a spot kick, after J. Crowe had fluted the ball in the penalty area. Turner got his second of the day on a pass from Coulter, just a minute later. The inside left put on his third of the day shortly after, scoring with an easy shot to make the score 5-0 at half time.

Coulter was back into the fray again when the second half opened and boosted the Royals' total to six when he headed a centre into the nets. Essler broke away towards the Royals' goal and put the ball into the net, making their first score. A couple of minutes later the same player headed one over Shile's head. Kerr scored the seventh for the champions on an easy shot.

Coming from behind to overcome a two-goal lead obtained in the first half, James Island junior football team defeated Esquimalt 3-2 in the semi-final of the city championship at Beacon Hill Saturday. As a result of the victory the Islanders will meet Royal Oak in the final for the title.

After twenty minutes of play, the Dockers went to the lead on Stewart netted their second counter.

The second half had been in progress about ten minutes when James Island scored their first goal through a penalty awarded against Warder for hands. Fields scored from the kick. Shortly after Bond tied the score, netting the ball during a scrimmage in the Esquimalt goal mouth.

With only a few minutes left to play James Island staged a concentrated attack on the Esquimalt goal and Olds succeeded in scoring what proved to be the winning goal.

Armstrong refereed. The teams were as follows: Esquimalt—De Costa, Toboy, Warder, Brian, Hicks, McLean, A. Hicks, Anderson, Wright, Stewart and Milton. James Island—Jenkinson, Rivers, Wilson, Aldous, Thompson, Rogers, Bond, Cowden, Fields, Olds and Mercer.

Seeking British Golf Title

Two of the most noted women golfers in the United States, who both won their matches to-day in the first round of the British women's golf championship. Miss Collett defeated Marjorie White of Southampton, 5 and 3, while Miss Hollins won from Mrs. R. V. Finlay by the same score. Joyce Wethered, British star, is the favorite to win the title, but these two U. S. players are conceded excellent chances of upsetting things.

U.S. WOMEN GOLFERS WIN

Glenna Collett and Marion Hollins Come Through in British Open

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 13.—Glenna Collett, U.S. titleholder, began her quest for the British women's golf championship with a 5 and 3 victory over Marjorie White of Southampton, in a first-round match to-day.

Most feared among the four U.S. entrants, Miss Collett played a sterling brand of golf to down her first British opponent in decisive fashion. She took the lead at the first hole and never relinquished it. At the turn she was leading two up.

Perfect weather conditions greeted the U.S. champion to-day in contrast to conditions a year ago when cold and rainy weather partially accounted for her defeat in an early round by Mabel Wages.

Marion Turpie, born at St. Andrews, but a U.S. resident, since she was less than a year old, was beaten in the first round by Miss S. F. Dampney of England, 3 and 2.

Miss Marion Hollins, former women's golf champion of the United States, won her first round match, defeating Mrs. R. V. Finlay, 5 and 3 to play.

Miss Joyce Wethered, three time champion and odds-on favorite to defeat Miss Phyllis Lobbert, 6 up and 5 to play.

Third Favorite To Win English Derby Scratched

London, May 13.—Racing enthusiasts got a shock last yesterday when it was announced that Aga Khan's favorite for the Derby, June 5, will not race "unless a miracle happens."

The horse is not considered fit, which is a heavy blow to people who held tickets for Costaki Pasha in the stock exchange sweepstakes. There are two equal prizes for each horse in the race. I. Rosenthal, member of the Johannesburg stock exchange, who holds one Costaki Pasha ticket, is said to have refused $50,000 for it.

THE BIG SIX

Pitchers had their innings against the Big Six yesterday and as a result averages generally were scaled down. The relative positions of the various men remained unchanged, with Lou Gehrig still in the van, but with an average of .371 instead of .389. The only two men to escape a decline were Paul Waner, who was not scheduled to play, and Babe Ruth, whose average remained stationary at .365 as a result of his getting the only Big Six safety, a two bagger at Detroit.

Rogers Hornsby went hitless at the Polo Grounds in six attempts and fell to .292, an amazing figure for the National League batting champion to own at any stage of the season.

The standing: G. A. B. R. H. P. Gehrig, Yankees 19 70 19 26 371 Ruth, Yankees 19 66 20 24 365 Goslin, Senators 19 77 13 25 325 Hornsby, Cubs 22 89 20 26 322 Bottomley, Cards 22 80 14 21 263 P. Waner, Pirates 19 77 11 20 260

With only a few minutes left to play James Island staged a concentrated attack on the Esquimalt goal and Olds succeeded in scoring what proved to be the winning goal.

Armstrong refereed. The teams were as follows: Esquimalt—De Costa, Toboy, Warder, Brian, Hicks, McLean, A. Hicks, Anderson, Wright, Stewart and Milton. James Island—Jenkinson, Rivers, Wilson, Aldous, Thompson, Rogers, Bond, Cowden, Fields, Olds and Mercer.

TOLEDO HEAVYWEIGHT SCORES DECISIVE VICTORY OVER "DUSTY" MILLER

Displaying a willingness to mix it with his dusky opponent at any stage during the fight, Joe Lohman, slugging heavyweight from Toledo, decisively outpointed "Dusty" Miller, local scrapper in their ten-round bout staged at the Tullium gymnasium on Saturday night. Lohman had even greater edge over Miller than in the first bout staged here several weeks ago, when the visitor was awarded the verdict.

KITCHENER FRANCHISE IN CAN-PRO LEAGUE BOUGHT BY ROCHESTER

Toronto, May 13.—Purchase of the Kitchener franchise in the Can-Pro League by Rochester interests, who will operate a team in the New York city next season, was reported here yesterday. It is said all the preliminaries are completed. Percy Lesueur, former manager of the Buffalo Bisons, will handle the Rochester club.

A GRUDGE FIGHT

Referee Martin had a little trouble in keeping Miller from hitting the barred kidney punch. Whenever the negro landed one just as the bell rang and Lohman drove his left and right into Miller's body after the sounding of the bell, Miller attempted to return the blows but Referee Martin managed to get the fighters into their corners just when it appeared as if the fight might take on a serious aspect.

ON SATURDAY NIGHT'S EXHIBITION IT LOOKS LIKE MILLER WILL NEVER BE ABLE TO BEAT LOHMAN AT THE PRESENT TIME. THE OHIOAN HAS TOO DECEPTIVE A STYLE FOR THE NEGRO TO FATHOM.

In the semi-windup between Wing Hay and Johnny McDonald of Vancouver, the fans saw a real battle, with the boys slugging it out during the entire four rounds. In the second and third Hay had McDonald pretty weak, but the Vancouver boy came back strong in the last round to earn himself a draw.

CACAO WINS GOLD CUP AT LONGCHAMP

Longchamp, France, May 13.—For the third consecutive Sunday, the stable of Baron Edouard de Rothschild yesterday carried off the banner race of the Longchamp card, Cacao, four-year-old by Beyerberry out of Coronille, captured the French gold cup over a two-mile and a half course. The race was worth $10,000 in addition to the cup. Francois Dupre's Brumeux was second and Lady Granard's Ori de Guerre, winner of the 1928 Grand Prix de Paris for the late Ogden Mills, was third. Cacao paid 5 to 1 in the betting.

TOLMIE BACK; FEARS EFFECT OF U.S. TARIFF

attitude towards an extension of the market for British Columbia loganberries and the prospects of final settlement of the return of the P.G.E. lands to the Province were commented upon.

RAILWAY BELT LANDS

In connection with the return of the railway belt lands the Premier said W. Cory, Deputy Minister of the Interior, would arrive in Victoria within the next two weeks to discuss with Provincial officials and the Government details that must be settled prior to the passing of the final legislation restoring the lands.

The Premier also stated he had had numerous conferences with respect to the P.G.E. and its problems, and while he was not in a position at the present to say anything, he felt quite satisfied with the outlook.

"There is one thing, however, that you may say," he added. "It is that the Dominion Government is interested to the extent that Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of Lands, will co-operate in the survey which our Government, together with the C.P.R. and the C.N.R., are making of the natural characteristics of the P.G.E. territory, and through to the Peace River, by loaning two aeroplanes to assist in the work. This will be of tremendous value, and we much appreciate the assistance."

B.C. LOGANBERRIES

Continuing Premier Tolmie said that he had held several conferences with officials and members of the Ontario Government, with a view to extending the market eastward for British Columbia loganberry products, and he felt highly gratified with the possibilities offered there.

"The more that we can send our trade east and west throughout our own territory, the better it will be for Canada as a whole," he said.

"This is what I urged in the East, and it is simply commonsense and good business."

The Premier said that he was delighted with the interest manifested everywhere he went in British Columbia generally.

U.S. TARIFF

"The serious aspect of the tariff and their probable effect on Canadian trade are being discussed everywhere," he said.

"It is ridiculous to suggest, for instance, that British Columbia will not feel the curtailment that is intended by the Washington administration of our markets for shingles and cedar lumber. The increased tariff on those commodities is aimed directly at British Columbia producers."

"I do not believe in tariff increases simply in the way of reprisals against United States actions; but I do think that it is time that our tariff was changed in order to give Canada and Canadians similar opportunities to develop trade and production that United States has found to be good business for her people."

"The sooner we learn to conserve Canadian markets for Canadian people and run Canada for the primary benefit of Canadian people, so much sooner will we reach our full share of prosperity."

SAW FUEL EXPERIMENTS

While at Ottawa, said Premier Tolmie, he had taken the opportunity of visiting the fuel experimental station, and discussed the possibilities of pulverized coal utilization.

"They are doing a great work under the direction of Charles Camell, Deputy Minister of Mines," explained the Premier, "and I interested myself in the experiments that are being made there, and preparations that are under way for further tests in respect of pulverized coal in competition with fuel oil. This question is one of great importance to our coal producing areas. I believe that something of definite value will result from the tests being made there."

"While in Ontario I called upon Premier Howard Ferguson and members of his Government, and was well received by them. I had several interesting conferences with members of the Ontario Government on matters that I considered to be of mutual interest to both British Columbia and Ontario. It was in this connection that I discussed the possibilities of extending markets for our loganberry products eastward. I also discussed with Sir Henry Drayton matters connected with the operation of the liquor laws."

"I discussed with Leon J. Ladner, M.P., K.C., our freight rates counsel, and W. C. Boyce, K.C., who is associated with him in our interests, matters connected with our appeal for reduction of rates on domestic grain."

Naphthalene worked into the garden soil in the proportion of one ounce to the square yard is a protection against destructive moth larvae.

"OLD MAN RIVER" GOES CALLING IN MISSOURI

AERIAL JOYRIDE BRINGS DEATH TO THREE

Three prominent men were killed and their bodies burned in the wrecked plane shown above when they crashed near Culver City, Cal., after a joyride at 5 a.m. from a Los Angeles airport. The victims were William H. Oviatt Jr., son of one of the producers of "The Miracle"; Ray Scott, scenario writer; and Max Fluker, talkie actor. Oviatt was owner and pilot of the plane.

If the serpent had been announced by a maid, Adam and Eve would have assumed their social masks, would have said how kind it was of him to have called, and would have discussed the weather for hours. The result would have been that the serpent would have known nothing whatever about him. Whereas by watching them secretly, the serpent soon learned what they were really like, and discovered all their little weaknesses. He soon saw, for instance, that he could ignore Adam, since Eve had him in the hollow of her hand.

MOTOR-DROPPING PLANE SUCCESSFUL

After changing an aeroplane into a glider 2,000 feet above Alameda, Cal., airport by a device which lets the motor and gasoline tank fall from the craft, Pilot Reed Vowles is shown above, shaking hands with the inventor, J. S. Abreu, over the smashed motor. Vowles landed his craft with a broken wheel, due to cross currents of wind just as he touched ground, but he was unhurt. Below, Abreu is pointing to the front of the plane, which is minus its motor.

A placid old lady who took life philosophically sat knitting in the drawing-room. To her there came rushing her sixteen-year-old granddaughter. "Oh, granny, granny," cried the girl, "father's just fallen off the roof!"

"I know, my child," replied the old lady, without even raising her eyes. "I saw him pass the window."

MILLIONAIRE HONORS HORSE AT COSTLY DINNER

(Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times)

London, May 12.—One of the most elaborate dinners given in London since the War was held in honor of Easter Hero, the horse that won the Cheltenham Gold Cup and was second in the Grand National.

Easter Hero's owner, Jack H. Whitney, the American millionaire, was the host. Walters clad in pink, white and black silk, to represent Mr. Whitney's racing colors, waited on the forty guests seated at a large table. In the shape of a horseshoe, which was laden with pink and white carnations. A suite of banquetting rooms was engaged for the forty guests, and an entire cabaret and a dance band were specially engaged.

ELABORATE DECORATIONS

A gigantic horseshoe, four feet high, made of pink and white stock, hung over the heads of the band. The whole room was decorated with hundreds of carnations of the same color. Special electric light fittings were put on the walls, and round the top of the room, which had been turned for just one night into a flower garden, were hung trailers of smilax. Even the chandeliers were festooned. Each woman guest was presented with a solid silver scent spray, specially engraved to commemorate the occasion. The men were given Mr. Whitney's own ten-inch cigars.

The menu paid its tribute to this much-feted hero by carrying on it the words "Delice de Sole Easter Hero." There were more than 5,000 carnations used in the decorating, and roses filled the window alcoves. Mr. Whitney inherited the wealth of his father, Payne Whitney, two years ago. Easter Hero was purchased from Captain Lowenstein, the Belgian millionaire.

Mother (to small boy putting his hand into a hole)—What are you doing? "Getting wasp grubs for bait."

"Oh, no; I didn't put the other hand in!"

"Isn't it strange how Dorothy likes birds?" "Not at all; I always thought she was a cat."

Tea Tax Cut Seen As Bid For Woman's Vote

(Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times)

London, May 13.—No more graceful compliment could have been paid to the coming woman voter than the remission of the tax on tea, which has been an institution since the days of Good Queen Bess.

What that redoubtable lady thought about its imposition is beside the point, but there is no doubt about the satisfaction with which its removal is hailed by ladies of whatever political color.

Whether they wave a red flag, cultivate the primrose, cling still to the Liberal fold, or even, despite all persuasion, take no interest in affairs political whatever, they are united in this; they all succumb, sooner rather than later, to the spell of a cup of tea.

A mash of wheat, raisins and rice and a quantity of what is alleged to be opium were seized in a joint raid last night by Esquimalt police, Royal Canadian Mounted Police and a special excise officer on premises in Esquimalt where he was employed.

As a result, Lou Gip Yen, Chinese, was arrested before Magistrate George Jay in Esquimalt Police Court this morning on two charges.

On an information sworn by Corporal T. C. Brice, R.C.M.P., Lou was charged with having opium, in his possession. He pleaded not guilty.

The second charge, sworn by E. V. McIntyre, special excise officer, alleged that Lou had in his possession a wash suitable for the manufacture of spirits, not having a license under the Excise Act. No plea was entered on this count.

Both cases were remanded until next Thursday.

G. H. Sedger appeared for the prosecution.

Found in Auto With Bottle In Hand, Dog in Lap

Constable Roy Woolsey, who accompanied Sergeant Heatley, said the accused was sitting in the car with a bottle of wine in his hands and a dog on his lap.

"He did not have a cent on him when he was searched," said the sergeant.

"I had five cents!" retorted McGinnis from the box.

When McGinnis told the court he had about a month's work in front of him, he was released.

TRIBUTES PAID TO MOTHERS AT MANY CHURCHES

"Mother's Day" Honored With Floral Decorations and Special Addresses

The honored place held by mothers, in home and community, was to the fore yesterday in most of the churches of the city, and was especially notable at Ross Bay and Royal Oak cemeteries, where hundreds of men, women and children placed floral tributes on the graves of departed mothers.

A majority of the churches held special services in commemoration of "Mother's Day," with decorations of white and red flowers which were afterwards sent to hospitals and the sick. Several congregations organized special transportation for mothers desiring to attend church, and the labors of mothers for the advancement of the community was generally stressed in the sermons of the day.

FIRST ADDRESS

At First United Church the morning service was attended by the Sunday school classes, who occupied the centre of the main floor. The congregation was one of the largest on record. Rev. G. Gray, assistant minister, gave the first address in Victoria, speaking of the "silent years" of Christ's life, when he was subject to his mother.

At Fairfield United Church flowers were distributed to worshippers as they entered for morning service, while blossoms to those whose mothers had passed on and red flowers to those whose mothers were still living. The floral decorations were distributed to the sick and elderly.

At Centennial Church a large audience heard Rev. James Hood review the influence of mothers. Flowers were used to decorate the church, were distributed at the close of the evening service, to be taken to sick persons.

At First Baptist Church seven children were received into membership and Rev. James Strachan spoke on the world influence of mothers. Many elderly mothers were numbered in the congregation and the church decorations were distributed as gifts to the sick.

CARS FOR MOTHERS

One of the largest congregations of the year attended the special morning service at Emmanuel Baptist Church. Twenty cars provided transportation for elderly mothers, and a baby was christened at the service. This unusual ceremony was introduced by Rev. Henry Knox when he first assumed the ministry, yesterday's ceremony being the first anniversary at the local church. The floral decorations were sent to patients at the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

At Metropolitan United Church a notable celebration of Mother's Day was held at the morning service, with Rev. Dr. W. J. Sippell speaking on the influence of mothers in the home and the nation.

GIRLS DECORATED

At James Bay United Church the red and white floral decorations were arranged by C.G.I.T. girls, the flowers being later given to elderly ladies.

At Victoria West United Church C.G.I.T. girls presented a mother with a bouquet of red and white blossoms and the church was well decorated in these colors, the flowers being later sent to the Old Ladies' Home. Flowers were distributed at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church by members of the C.G.I.T. and Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell referred to "Mother's Day" in his morning address. "Mother" was rendered as a soprano solo by Mrs. William Grant.

Oak Bay United Church celebrated Mother's Day with a special afternoon service, the influence of mothers being featured in the evening address by Rev. W. A. Guy.

In order to complete arrangements for the show, a committee consisting of Harold Beckwith, Harold Butters, Robert Yates, Louis Glazen, Harold B. McDonald, J. INTUITION WARNS BOOBYALLA'S CAT OF COMING FIRE

"Martha" Carries Four Kittens By Neck From Engine-room Night Before Fire

Premonition of disaster in animals has long been recognized. A cat named Boobyalla, who lives in the engine-room of the vessel the night before fire broke out.

"Martha" had chosen a nice cosy spot near the engine-room. She was four feet, four inches high. There were four soft, furry little kittens, and they were all in the warm atmosphere of the engine-room.

But on Friday night they had to leave their comfortable home. One by one the mother took them by the neck, carried them up the steep companionway and out to the forward part of the ship. Deep among the deck-load of shingles, forward of the wheelhouse, she made another little nest, and there spent the night.

At 4.30 o'clock the next morning fire broke out with startling suddenness in the engine-room. "Martha" and her brood were well out of reach of the flames, nestled among the warm, dry shingles.

When the Boobyalla reached Esquimalt in tow of the Hopkirk and the Salvage King, her kittens were transferred to a more comfortable house in the engine-room. Since then they have quit the vessel and "signed on" the Salvage King.

INITIAL TRIP OF BIG FOKKER PLANE IS MADE

First Machine of This Type to Visit Victoria, Arrives To-day From Vancouver

Owned By Yarrow Aircraft Corporation and Will Be Used For Survey Work

The first Fokker seaplane ever to visit Victoria and one of the few on the Pacific Coast arrived in Victoria from Vancouver shortly after noon to-day and berthed at the Signal Hill mooring in Esquimalt Harbor. Owned by the newly formed Yarrow Aircraft Corporation Limited of Vancouver, she made the trip from the mainland port in forty-five minutes under weather conditions which were ideal.

Passengers carried on the initial trip of the big plane were Norman A. Yarrow of Victoria, president of the corporation; L. A. Dobbin, manager; Capt. W. C. W. Dobbin, pilot of the plane; C. R. Dobbin, mechanic; Mrs. T. R. Palmer of the Province, and H. Brown of The Sun. The plane returned to Vancouver this afternoon.

The pilot and mechanic as well as the passengers said the trip over had been a delightful experience. The machine was only assembled in Vancouver over the week-end, having arrived from Montreal on Saturday morning. It is a monoplane, equipped with a 300-horsepower Wright Whirlwind engine, and two Hamilton floats. Eight persons can be carried, six passengers and the pilot and mechanic.

FOR SURVEY WORK

Mr. Yarrow said this morning that it is the corporation's intention to use the new plane for aerial photography on Vancouver Island, for survey purposes and forest fire patrol, both on the island and in the interior of the Province. The big Fokker is the fourth machine to be acquired by the new corporation, there being three Morth planes in operation in Vancouver. On Saturday morning one of the Morths was a visitor here, returning with Mr. Yarrow.

The plane as she flew over Victoria this morning attracted a good deal of attention, making a pretty picture as she cruised over the breakwater and turned to make a graceful landing in Esquimalt Harbor.

The new Fokker will be a frequent visitor here during the coming Summer, Mr. Yarrow said.

VICE-PRESIDENT OF FIRM ARRIVES

Frank F. Halls Satisfied With Progress on C.P.R. Hotel Contract

Frank F. Halls, vice-president of Carter-Halls Contractors for the new wing of the Empress Hotel, reached Victoria this morning from Winnipeg. Mabel Basil, superintendent of construction, C.P.R. western hotels, and J. Graham Johnson, resident engineer for the company, this morning inspected progress on the contract. He said he was satisfied with the way the work was going ahead.

The steel is now being installed to link up the Humboldt Street wing with the main hotel building. The attention of the construction engineers being concentrated at the moment in the placing of the twenty-ton steel cantilever girders designed to carry the building over the driveway.

Five floors of concrete have been poured on the new wing and half of the steelwork supporting the dormer roof is in place.

Simultaneously the contractors are proceeding with the installation of the speed electric elevators in the existing north wing of the hotel.

Part of the roof has been removed for the erection of the electric hoisting apparatus. These elevators will give express service to the new wing.

She shrank a little from the task, as if a passport of undisputed quality had been shown.

"Come in, Miss Heron, I am indeed pleased to see you. If you are a daughter of Mr. Walter Heron, our father, one of Her Majesty's judges, used to meet him in the old days. Come in."

Beatrice entered joyfully. There was no atmosphere of carping or complaint, no punishment of the innocent for the guilty, but the true gentleness which gets down quickly to essential things.

The door was closed, and Beatrice was ushered into an old-fashioned sitting-room, shabby to a degree, yet which, somehow, had absorbed and retained an impression of dignity, and even a kind of beauty, which made it fine setting for these two frail delicacies on the shores of time, both very old and totally unfitted to do battle with life.

Beatrice shuddered inwardly as she was introduced to Miss Ellen, who was not able to leave her sofa, as she pictured what their condition and estate might have been had John Brodie been—well—a different kind of man.

"This is Miss Heron, Ellen, a daughter of Mr. Walter Heron, and a friend of Mr. John Brodie."

The invalid smiled too, and, disengaging one of her frail white hands from her knitting, offered it.

Then Beatrice sat down, feeling suddenly weak, and unable to pursue the conversation or to start a subject. But none was needed, John Brodie proved to be the only theme.

"I think it so wonderful," piped the elder Miss Kinloch, "that Mr. Brodie should have come back just when we were explaining to us that things were not so bad at all, and that we would not need to remove from this dear little home our father bought for us and left to us when he died. He was not rich, because he gave away so much in his lifetime to poor gentlemen like us, and he was determined that he should be safeguarded against the misfortune and distress which John Brodie, whom you know."

Instantly the door was flung wide.

B.C. Electric STORES

She had heard her father speak often of their father, the fiery old judge whose denunciations of willful wrong-doing, especially on the part of schemers and robbers in public trusts, had been a byword in his day. She could almost hear in imagination the scathing terms in which he would have characterized what had happened to the old firm in which he had had sufficient confidence to place his daughters' affairs.

"You see, women do not understand business. It is not intended that they should," cooed Miss Kinloch in her gentle, apologetic voice. "Nor is it necessary, Miss Heron, when there are so many splendid men to act for them."

"It might be better though, if women knew a little more," suggested Beatrice. "Enough, at least, to safeguard themselves."

"Ah well, possibly, but we have never needed or felt the lack of it, have we, Ellen?"

"No, but I agree with Miss Heron. See what trouble Mr. Brodie has to explain things to us both times he has been here."

"When was he here last?" asked Beatrice, and hated herself for putting the question.

"Only yesterday, to say good-bye. I think he said, did he not?"

Each word as it fell from that babbling old tongue seemed like a two-edged sword. For, knowing in the innermost fibre of her being that she was all true of the man they spoke of, how she treated him, with what measure had she requited his generous consideration for her, and for all men.

"He assured us that there had been some retrieval, and that nothing would be as bad as he had been led to expect and fear. We need not alter our way of life, indeed, we have always been most careful, for we were taught to be that so that we might help others. He very particularly assured us that poor Mr. Heron, for whom our dear father thought so highly as a young man, was not in the least to blame."

Beatrice turned round sharply with a question on her lips which, however, was strangled at the birth. If he had gone out of his way to clear her father's memory to these confused and trembling women, what could he have said of his own? She dared not ask it, though her eyes were filled with a dumb questioning. Still Miss Kinloch mended on.

"He tells us that the business standard has changed for the worse, and that there are unprincipled people in the world who live off the ignorance and trust of others. Very sad, is it not? All seem in haste to be rich. If only they would be content with simple things. It is with them true happiness lies. Do you not think so, Miss Heron?"

There was a mingled note of perplexity and appeal in the old lady's voice now, for Beatrice Heron's silence troubled her. Also her face was tragic, her eyes lit by sombre fires.

"We hope very much you have not suffered, in your circumstances, that would make us happier to know that it has made no difference."

"Oh, but it has. That was inevitable. It has been a good change, converting three rather useless women—my sister, my stepmother and myself—into workers. I am learning dressmaking and millinery with Madame Theodore in George Street."

Up went the poor old lady's hands in pious horror. She belonged to the old regime, to the cult of gentleness and to the use of the labour of the hands.

"Our home at Trinity has been converted into a boarding house, full of strange people, nothing is the same. We are glad to work, are happier so. Now I must not intrude further, excepting to say that I shall be happier to know that you are able to go as you have always done."

"But, dear Miss Heron, what you tell us is really terrible, is it not, Ellen?" cried the little old lady.

"Not at all, terrible," Beatrice assured her cheerfully. "I like my work very much, and I am going to succeed in it, which is even more important. Won't you tell me something about the old Edinburgh days? I am sure the Edinburgh of Lord Kinloch's day must have been far more interesting than ours. Tell me, did you ever meet in your father's house the author of 'Rab and his Friends,' or Delta, or any others of those splendid, great ones who made Edinburgh famous?"

Immediately, Beatrice discovered that she had tapped a rich and unfathomable well of memory and experience. For the next half-hour she had to do was to listen, interpolating an occasional question or remark, while they brought from their reminiscences of the fragmentary days of their youth. When she came to go at last, they begged her to come again, soon and often. She promised, fully aware that the link was John Brodie. The visit added to the sum of her gratitude to him, and her wonder over his singular personality.

But at the back of her brain hammered the devastating fact that he was going away across the sea, where kindly thoughts could hardly reach him. It was even possible that they might never meet again.

Traveling to London by the night train, people went to the station often to bid late travelers God-speed and farewell, why not she? She even went to the post office and, under pretext of buying a stamp, asked to see a railway time table.

Three trains went out from the city that evening from different stations. Supposing for a moment she should so far overcome her natural reserve as to seek him on a public platform, most likely she would choose the wrong station, time and train. It was not to be thought of, and yet the thought and desire lingered, and ought to have been conveyed by some channel of telepathy to John Brodie, spending a stormy and unhappy evening with his mother, who disapproved of all his actions and most of his thoughts. She felt no desire to go home yet, and in the post office she took out her little address book in which she had made some notes of the cases John Brodie had relieved.

Next to the Misses Kinloch was the name Ballantyne, Rankellor Street. It was on the south side of the city, but the Spring evenings were lengthening and there was no reason for her to hasten home. She stepped out, and after walking back to Princess Street, took the tram car that would bring her to her destination.

It was an odd little house, a mere cottage standing on the ridge overlooking the Queen's Park, and the strange cliff-like ridge of the hill known as Samson's Ribs. Just a handful of delectable houses stood there, and none were ever to be let. They were beloved of artists and literary folk, who loved their old world flavor. Beatrice was once more conscious of personal shrinking from intrusion, and she pushed back the little wrought-iron gate and walked up the flagged stone passage to the half open door. She did not like the task she had set herself, but was determined to go through with it no matter what it cost, imagining in some dim way that she was not only supplementing John Brodie's good deeds, but in some remote way associating herself with him in their performance.

Donkey Finds Way to Evade Work

It is a great mistake to employ the name of the donkey as a metaphor for stupidity, says Rev. J. G. Wood, the famous British naturalist.

He cites as proof the case of Sancho, a donkey belonging to friends. Sancho was a great favorite with the children, whom he bore about regularly and with great patience—sometimes as many as three bestriding him at the same time.

After 4 p.m. the children all went away to school. Sancho had a delightful vacation, free of work and responsibility. But in due time his youthful masters returned and started to resume their rides.

Sancho had thought things over. He allowed them to mount, but he would not budge a step. Instead, he shook his riders off until they gave up and left him alone.

THE GOOFYGOS

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNUCK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The Goofygoose began to race, and anger flushed to Clowny's face. It made him mad to think the bird would steal a loaf of bread. "Hey, come back here," he yelled. "Such tricks as that should not be tried. I wish I had a rope. I'd throw it sailing over your head."

The bird kept running very fast and held the bread real tight. At last the other Tines realized that they were being robbed. Then Scouty shouted, "Catch him, quick!" He'll pay real dearly for this trick. Poor Scouty was so storming mad his heart just throbbed and throbbed.

The baker, who'd been sound asleep, looked up and shouted, "Hey there, keep real quiet! I must have my snooze. You're making too much noise. Remember, when I've had my sleep, my party plans I'll gladly keep. But, if you keep on shouting, I will disappoint you boys."

"But, look! We're shy one loaf of bread," one of the Tines quickly said. "The Goofygoose is running off. He has it 'neath his wing. He wants it for his very own, and plans to eat it all alone." "Is that so?" said the baker man. "Well, he'll do no such thing. 'Come on, now, after him! Be quick, 'cause I imagine he's sick. We'll circle round the Goofygoose, so he can't get away. Of course, he may think this is fun, but quite a bad thing he has done. He'll soon find out that stealing things is not our sort of play."

So, off they scampered, full of pep, and neared the big bird, step by step. To circle all around him, 'bout a half an hour was spent. Then Clowny drew up close to him and took a dive in perfect trim. He caught the Goofygoose's long legs and down they quickly went.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggly's Picnic

(Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)
By HOWARD E. GARIS

Uncle Wiggly sat on a stump in the woods at a place where two roads met and crossed in the shape of the letter X. The rabbit gentleman had a basket which he had set down on some green moss around the stump. Pretty soon along came walking Mr. Twistytail, a fat pig gentleman who, when he saw Uncle Wiggly, cried out:

"Hello! Where are you going?"

"I am going to a picnic," answered Mr. Longears.

"Going to a picnic?" grunted the pig. "Well, I should think you were already at a good place for a picnic, here in these lovely woods, with a stump for a table and also for a chair. And you have your basket of lunch with you, also, I see."

"Yes," answered Uncle Wiggly, looking down at the basket. "I have my lunch. But I am not going to have my picnic here. I am going to the city before I eat."

"To the city?" squealed Mr. Twistytail in surprise. "Whatever are you going there for? I thought you liked it here in our quiet woods."

"So I do," replied Mr. Longears. "But I must have adventures and see new things in life and so I decided that I would go to the nearest city and see what might happen there."

5-13

He called goodbye to his fat friend.

"Plenty will happen!" grunted the fat pig. "Plenty! Why, goodness sakes alive! I was in the city once, when I was a little pig, and what with the noise and the smoke and everybody being in a hurry I was never so glad in all my life to get back to my quiet pen in the country."

"Yes, I've heard that the city is a busy place," said Uncle Wiggly. "But I am going there just the same. I may have some new and surprising adventures."

"Oh, you will!" cried Mr. Twistytail. "You will! No doubt of it. I only hope nothing bad happens to you."

"I'll take care of myself," said Uncle Wiggly with confident-like calm. "I suppose I could find plenty to eat in the city for my picnic lunch, but my wife and Nurse Jane thought I had better take a basket along for the first day. So I did."

"Perhaps it will be best," agreed the pig. "But do you know anybody in the city, Uncle Wiggly?"

"Oh, yes," answered Mr. Longears. "I have a sort of second cousin there who works in a pet shop. His name is Lett-Cousin Lett."

"Let," repeated Mr. Twistytail, "that seems a queer name," and said new names. "You see in the city they're always in a hurry so they have short names."

"Oh I see," grunted the pig. "Well,
